Secretary Dulles Says West May Deal With Reds

Showdown in Berlin May Result From Surprise Statement

BERLIN (AP) — Surprise and dismay spread through Allied and West Berlin circles Wednesday night at Secretary of State Dulles' statement that the West might deal with East Germany in a Berlin showdown.

The bombshell hit the isolated old German capital shortly after it was disclosed Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had visited East Berlin. Official Soviet sources said he gave the green light for Communist officials to make ready for a Soviet withdrawal from East Berlin.

Officials showed little reluctance to exhibit their private consternation at Dulles' remarks.

Gave Away Counter

The feeling was that Dulles' statement—despite its qualifications—gave away a bargaining counter before the Russians even showed their hand.

Western officials have never ruled out the possibility of limited contacts with the East Germans on the 110-mile rail and highway link to West Germany. But it was indicated that this would be a concession of last resort.

Over the past two days Allied officials gave the impression that the Western powers might resort to an airlift rather than yield to even limited dealings with the Communists.

Shortly before Dulles' news conference in Washington, London declared the Big Three were united and determined to stick to Berlin and preserve routes into the city. Similar comment came from the French.

The East German news agency ADN quickly distributed its version of Dulles' remarks. It claimed Dulles had sought to appese West Germany by stressing that any dealing with the East Germans would be on a practical basis, rather than formal recognition.

But West German officials in Bonn were as surprised as those in Berlin by Dulles' remarks.

"We know of no such agreement between the Western Allies," a Bon government spokesman said.

A spokesman for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Bonn would reject any Western move recognizing the East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union.

REMAINS OF HOUSE IN WHICH TWO TOTS DIED — A state patrolman and neighbors sift through the charred remains of the John Clemens home, RD 1, Kensington, which burned to the ground Wednesday noon, killing two infant sons, Gary Lee, 4, and Ricky, 2.

Led From House Once, Children Run Back Inside

Ricky Clemens, 2, Brother, Gary, 4, Victims of Blaze

Two small children were afraid to jump from an upstairs window into the safety of a state highway patrolman's arms and as a result perished in the fire which destroyed their Kensington home Wednesday at noon.

The victims were Gary Lee Clemens, 4, and Ricky Ellsworth Clemens, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Clemens of Rt. 9, about a mile south of Kensington.

The children, along with a brother, Larry, 5, were rushed out of the home when the fire began about 11:30 yesterday morning, but the two younger boys ran back into the house.

The three youngsters were at home with a sitter, Mrs. Cecil McDole of East Rochester, while their father was at work at the Ohio Hoist Co. at Lisbon and their mother was working at the Ceramic Tile Co. of Minerva.

Carroll County Sheriff Dean Yeager said Mrs. McDole rushed the children out onto a back porch to save them from the flames, but the two litlte ones ran back inside and upstairs.

Mrs. McDole was on the back porch with Lawrence when State Highway Patrolman, Jack D. Junkins, stationed at Warren, drove by while off duty. He went to the rear to the screaming woman, who ran inside the home herself in an effort to save the two boys.

Junkins went into the house, pulled Mrs. McDole out and ordered her to stay outside. He could see the two boys at windows upstairs at the rear and yelled at them to jump into his arms. They refused.

The fund drive will be held in January.

Funds raised in the March of Dimes campaign will be used to care for persons paralyzed as a result of polio attacks, Mr. McKeeve said.

The money will be used nationally to support research into the causes of virus diseases, arthritis and birth defects.

In the drive last year, approximately $30,000 was raised in Columbiana County.

Vice President Makes Speech In London

LONDON (AP)—Vice President Nixon urged Wednesday night that the West adopt as its No. 1 goal "the victory of plenty over want, of health over disease, of freedom over tyranny."

"Let us speak less of the threat of communism and more of the promise of freedom," he said in a speech at a British - American banquet in London's ancient Guildhall.

Prime Minister Macmillan and Prince Philip, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, sat among the dinner guests as Nixon reviewed 20th century ideals and aims of the United States and Britain.

He touched on a forecast by Premier Nikita Khrushchev that the Soviet Union will outstrip the Western powers in the battle for better standards of living.

Delighted To Accept

"If Mr. Khrushchev wishes to consider these steps as a form of competition or contest, I am sure all of us would be delighted to accept the challenge," Nixon said. "In such a contest, no one could really lose.

"The world would be infinitely better off if man's energies were used for the welfare of families

Court Okays Police Use of Radar Traps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Use of radar to catch speeders won unanimous approval of the Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday.

The decision upheld the conviction of Glen Ferell for driving 42 m.p.h. in an East Cleveland 25 m. p.h. zone March 7, 1956.

Ferell protested his conviction solely on evidence obtained from a radar speedmeter without testimony by an expert on its construction and operation.

"In this case," the high court said, "the scientific principal of the radar speedmeter has been used for over a century by scientists to detect the speed of moving objects."

The court noted that the meter in question was properly set up and tested by a trained technician and that the meter functioned properly.

The Supreme Court declined to review refusal of Portage County

35 Extra Workers Hired for Rush

Postoffice Ready For Holiday Mail Season

A staff of 35 extra clerks and carriers has been hired to help at the Salem Postoffice when the Christmas mailing rush begins.

Although these substitutes will not start to work until the week of Dec. 10, Postmaster O. C. Hoover reminds patrons that it's not too early to begin planning for Christmas mailing. The "Mail Early" plea is stressed again.

To facilitate the handling of parcel post, the Postoffice has again rented the Bowman building off Penn Ave. for processing of packages. Three clerks will be on duty there to distribute parcel post, leaving the Postoffice building free to handle letter mail only.

The postmaster urges everyone to get their packages in the mail early to avoid the last-minute confusion of the Christmas rush and possible disappointment.

Right now is the time to plan Christmas card and gift list, he added First, check your card list carefully to make sure that each address includes full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

He explained that a Christmas card or letter may be included inside a gift package by simply adding the appropriate First Class mail stamps to the postage for the package itself.

Christmas cards and gifts for the most distant points should be mail-

Thanksgiving Means Much to Americans

By The Associated Press

There is hardly an American who will not be touched by the material things which go traditionally with Thanksgiving, who will not have something extra to make this a different and better day.

For nearly all of her millions there is plenty. Even the derelicts will, for the most part, be cared for.

That, in itself, is a great blessing.

An even greater one is that, despite all the world's tensions, Americans are not dying in battles which have so often been threatened.

Indeed, the list of blessings which may be recounted as Americans sit down to their traditional feast is a very long one.

One American blessing transcends all others. Its people are of a character which sets aside a national day for recognition that getting is not enough — that their welfare is so largely due to fortuitous natural location, and a power beyond their own.

Threat of Communism Makes Every Thanksgiving Uneasy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is Thanksgiving Day. And what do we have to be thankful for?

For two thing, mainly:

1. That we're still alive at a time when the United States and the Soviet Union have enough atomic and hydrogen bombs to make the human race look like a piece of wrapping paper that was burned in an open field years ago.

2. That so long as there is no war we can go on hoping that war between the East and West, between the Communist and non-Communist world, can be postponed until in the end there will be no war.

But every year ahead — from one Thanksgiving Day till the next — will be an uneasy one.

Communism is a crusading belief, bent on capturing the world. The Western democracies have the task of building dikes against the tide, with aid and arms, hoping in the end their way of life will look more attractive.

It won't be easy. In the struggle between the two beliefs, the democracies may have to move further and further towards socialism, and communism further and further towards individual freedom.

In the end — if peace can be preserved — communism and capitalistic democracy may have lost so much of their original identity that they will have become something different from what either side imagines now, and almost identical.

The best reason for thinking so is that life itself — and life means both ideas and men's desire — is steadily undergoing change.

At this moment when the West is giving aid to more backward peoples — and still trying to balance its budget — it feels that it is doing the best it can. Years from now, if communism wins, the West may feel it did far less than enough.

Communism, both in China and in the Soviet Union, is straining its utmost to come abreast of and surpass the West in a matter of a few years. As an example: the recently anounced Soviet economic plan.

The West has no reason to be self-satisfied. It's in a life and death struggle. Because it has led the world for centuries — in production and living standards — is no guarantee it can continue to do so.

What is unknown now, and seldom talked about, is the potential of the backward people, in Asia and Africa. That potential will become clearer when they get started on the road to the 20th century and begin to perform with the energy all men are capable of.

It is these people with the black and yellow skins who, when they begin to assert their potential, may change the course of history and the direction of both communism and capitalistic democracy.

One thing is sure: On this Thanksgiving day the West, proud and self-assured for so long, cannot look into the future and be positive that on some future Thanksgiving Day it will be the winner.

Stock Market Bounces Back After Its Jolting Setback

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made its greatest advance in a year Wednesday, bouncing back like a rubber ball from three jolting setbacks.

Like a rubber ball, however, it did not rebound to the height from which it was dropped. The advance recouped an estimated $3,-70,00,000 of the approximate 11 billion dollars lost in quoted values in the prior three days, based on the movement of the Associated Press average.

Blue chip issues rose as much as three points and more. Some secondary stocks made bigger gains.

Brokers called the recovery technical and said it was greatly aided b ya large assortment of rosy corporate reports such as higher dividends and stock splits. Many prices were knocked down from record highs, brokers said, and Wednesday looked like a good chance to buy at more moderate prices in anticipation of the hoped-for upward move over the long run.

The advance swept most sections of the list except for a scattering of well-known stocks which fell because of poor news or some technical market reason. All 15 most active issues rose.

The rise was the biggest one-day advance since Nov. 27, 1957 when the AP 60-stock average jumped $3.90 in relief that President Eisenhower was making good progrest from his cerebral ailment.

The AP 60-stock average rose $2.90 to $201.90 with the industrials up $4, the rails up $3.60 and the utilities up 60 cents.

Volume was 4,090,000 shares compared with 3,940,000 Tuesday.

American Stock Exchange prices rose in active dealings. Volume was 1,770,000 shares compared with 1,40,000 Tuesday.

U.S. government bonds declined in light turnover with losses reaching 20-32. Corporates closed higher after a mixed performance.

Corporate trading was in preholiday doldrums, declining to $5,860,000 par value on the big board from $6,40,000 Tuesday.

Not Thankful for Bread Alone

In the spirit of the first Thanksgiving, all of us are thankful, first, for the bounty of the earth, which continues to be fruitful and more than adequate, despite men's irrational attempts to make it otherwise.

It does not change the spirit of the first Thanksgiving to acknowledge that Americans have much to be thankful for besides bread alone and that some of the high points of gratitude are not as flippant as they sound.

Is it not something to be grateful for that the National Safety Council has been unable to make the heavily publicized traffic hazards that arise on national holidays blight the pleasure of getting together for family reunions and turkey feasts? We are still willing to risk the hazards of a dangerous land for the privilege of living in it.

On the other hand, let us be thankful that the mechanical geniuses who make automobiles have tapered off the speed of these go-devils at about 120 miles an hour, which is twice as fast as it is legal to drive under most conditions and approximately three times as fast as it is safe to drive any where.

Let us be thankful, moreover, that in a nation which is making no visible progress toward controling its spites and passions there is no positive proof, on the other hand, that we are growing more lawless and ruthless, bombing, knifings, shootings and bludgeoning to the contrary notwithstanding.

WE CAN GIVE THANKS ,too, in a spirit of humility for the oft-demonstrated fact that the daisy-chain of misconceptions and blunders which holds together what is hopefully described as a foreign policy is not unique in a grossly mismanaged world but is matched by the fumbles and bumbles of other governments equally confused, chiefly the government of the Soviet Union.

Special gratitude is stirred, moreover, by a state of mind that is reported from key points around the world where politicians make fateful decisions to trouble the waters so they can fish in them — that the mass of civilians, unimpressed by both the political and military minds exerting pressure on them — have been showing a significant degree of composure. In short, more civilians are behaving more like human beings and less like rabbits, when the hunters of power and their yapping dogs take to the field of public affairs.

We can give thanksgiving for the millions of men and women of good will in America and every other land whose mental development has carried them to the stage of independent decision, barring them to exploitation by the proponents of bad faith and personal and public corruption.

WE CAN BE thankful, above all, for the impulses of freedom that so far have saved us from the fetters of human bondage that lie forged and ready for us whenever we despair of being able to put our trust in a "'fuehrer," a dictator, or a man on horseback.

The thanksgiving list in our country is long — longer than it is anywhere else on earth — and in 1958 it is still growing.

Americans today are the world's most envied people, and it behooves us to remember who we are and how we earned that envy.

We are the foreigners who came to a new continent to pool our human resources for the building of a great new country in which no despot could hold sway — a land in which human beings would hold the sovereign power.

In 1958, there is that to be thankful for, too.

Pull a Billion Out of a Hat

Elmer W. Coy of Toledo, who is credited with the idea for legalizing bingo and other kinds of lotteries in Ohio, provided the rake-off goes to charty, is reported to have a still bigger idea in mind.

This would be a national lottery, which would be feasible if all 48 states let down the bars on this form of gambling.

A national lottery, like perpetual motion, is a very appealing idea — at first. It is appealing because it looks like an easy way to do a hard job; i.e., raise the money to run the government.

In the United States at the present time it might look like an easy way to reduce the national debt, which is Mr. Coy's idea.

But, like perpetual motion, there's a catch in it.

Easy money wouldn't be easy if it became bread-and-butter money. It would be like the tax on so-called luxury items when these become necessities, as some of them do. If the government took its bite out of every purse, or, worse yet, if the government ran the game, gambling wouldn't be much more fun than it turns out to be at a school festival, where the sucker isn't even under the illusion he can make a killing.

Furthermore, as soon as gambling begins to work for the government, the government becomes responsible for the gamblers, which can be a sticky business. Every time a sticky finger comes out of the pot with too much money sticking to it, there's a scandal, and the politicians are the goats.

Lotteries once were as common in the United States as football, baseball and basketball pools are now. There was little difference other than the fact the old-time lotteries were for public money-raising, while today's "lucky combination" pools are for private profit.

But all existing anti-lottery laws grew out of disillusionment with public lotteries and the abuses they created. The United States learned by bitter experience that government cannot be run like a casino.

Welcome, Grimaldis

Everybody's favorite princess, who used to be a movie actress, is back home for Thanksgiving — and all of us feel pretty good about it. She brought her husband with her, fellow named Grimaldi. The Kelly-Grimaldi nuptials three years ago next spring made the presidential election, which came later, seem like an anticlimax.

The reason we feel pretty good about it is that we suspected at the time that Grace Kelly was making a mistake in marrying this Grimaldi fellow, who was the prince of a place called Monaco. But things have been working out all right, apparently. And Monaco keeps looking better all the time.

It has no politics, no taxes and no army.

It gets the money it needs from gambling, which isn't as bad as it sounds because it is against the law for the natives to gamble. They just make it easy for foreigners to gamble. And the foreigners thus pay all the bills.

After getting used to that, it mus be a shock for Princess Grace to come back home, where Americans pay the bills for the foreigners.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Dear Uncle Sam: Ain't you overplaying the role of a Round Table knight? You're a stout fellah, a square shooter, a champion of underdogs and an all-around wonderful guy, but you could get getting too far out on a limb enacting the combination role of Sir Lancelot, Probation Officer Glotz and the Boy Scout of the Year.

Leave us face it, there has never been a time in history when a fellow who has given so much for freedom and justice got himself so dislike in so many places.

It is hard to fault a man who stands firmly for integrity, peace and brotherhood but in this hardboiled world he can be standing over a trapdoor operated by skeptics, double-dealers, hypocrites, bad actors and "What-have-you-done-forme-LATELY" boys.

YOU ARE FACING the dangers of doing an aerial act without a net, serving as a life saver in a sea of crocodiles, and impersonating a white knight at gangster clambakes.

It's a good trick, even if you don't do it. But it has everybody tense and nervous. Have you been reading too much Alfred Tennyson verse?

Could you be taking too seriously the lines:

My good blade carves the casques of men,
My tough lance thrusteth sure,
My strength is as the strength of ten
BECAUSE MY HEART IS PURE.

It is one of te noblest poems ever written and I am all for Galahad. Just the same I doubt he would be able to go full speed ahead in a world so full of toughies, bear traps, minefields, conflicting ideologies, dedicated throat-slitters, thugs, foes wobbly friends weak sisters, long-winded threats and simultaneous translation.

We are in a world where a proclamation "My strength is as the strength of ten" can bring on a Security Council emergency session, another call for Hammarskjold and cries of "Sez you" from your best friends.

And in an atomic bomb period of history "Because my heart is pure" brings a chorus of "Give me ten more reasons for your last message."

UNCLE SAM AND SIR GALAHAD have much in common. You can say with him, "When down the storm crescent goes, a light before me swims; Between dark stems the forest glows: I hear a noise of hymns."

We love you for it, mister. But watch your timing check the route and remember Tennyson was a great poet but never a secretary of state.

Thanksgiving Treat

Unrecognized Reds

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Now you see it, now you don't.

The United States gets itself into a spot that looks like a game of magic with its persistence in refusing to recognize the existence of Communist regimes which exist.

The latest example is with the East German Communists. Before that it was with the Chinese Communists.

The Red Chinese drove Chiang Kai-shek off the China mainland and to Formosa in 1949. The United States, allied with Chiang, has refused for nine years to recognize the Chinese Communists as the rulers of China.

There is no reason to think Chiang will ever get back to the mainland or that the Red Chinese regime will collapse, or change, in the foreseeable future.

But the United States refuses—officially—to recognize the Communist government in China.

Yet the United States has been forced to deal with the Red Chinese, first, starting in 1955 for the release of American prisoners they held. There were many meetings between American and Red Chinese representatives on this.

More lately in Warsaw the United States and Red China, through their diplomatic representatives, have been talking, so far fruitlessly, of some way to bring peace to the Formosa Strait area.

So, while we don't officially recognize the Red Chinese, we deal with them.

The same thing happened with the East German Communists. There is no doubt they've been puppets for their Soviet Communist masters. The United States has refused to recognize the East German Communist government.

But last summer this country had to negotiate with them for the release of nine U.S. Army men who accidentally landed their helicopter in East Germany. The men were released.

Now the Russians seem to be forcing this country into further dealings with the East German Reds, and on a far larger scale.

The Russians anounced they plan to withdraw from East Berlin, leaving it in the hands of the East German Communists, and insist that the United States, Britain and France withdraw from West Berlin.

The three Western Allies refuse to get out. But what happens if the Russians withdraw? Berlin is 110 miles inside East Germany. The Allies and West Germans there can be supplied overland from West Germany but only on rails and roads that go through East Germany.

If the East Germans decide to blockade all such overland supply traffic, the Allies can hardly hope to send trains through, armored or otherwise, since the East Germans could block the rails with freight cars.

An Associated Press story from Berlin said the idea of pushing a tank-led supply convoy of trucks over the East German highway is even more "'nightmarish."

The reason: Soviet military forces in East Germany, which overwhelmingly outnumber Atlantic Pact divisions in Europe, could cut the highway at any point.

Instead of trying to supply West Berlin overland, the Allies might try an airlift That worked in 1948-49 when the Russians used a land blockade. But it worked only because the Russians let the Western planes through.

If now the East Germans, backed by the Russians, decided to shoot down any planes flying supplies to West Berlin through East German airways, the result would be unpleasant, to say the least.

The United States, Britain and France have been studying an alternative idea for accepting East German control of transportation to Berlin on a nonrecognition basis.

There is a limit, however, on how long the West can continue to do business with Red regimes whose existence the West continues to refuse to recognize.

Purely Personal

No mater how hard I try, I fail to understand how a person who cannot afford to make an optional purchase can afford to make it if he borrows money. Yet, this is what the government does, so it is no wonder the idea is being taken up by the people.

There is a curious cross-over in my mind between John Charles Daley and Edward R. Murrow, though they do not resemble each other. Yet, they continually remind me when I am looking at one of something about the other.

It is my guess that historians will be puzzled by the tendency o the United States to put up a stubborn defense of so many indefensible positions and that this is why millions of Americans feel puzzled when they try to comprehend the ins and outs of U.S. foreign policy.

It seems to me the most important thing in politics at the moment is the election - proved fact that Democrats cornered more than 60 per cent of the vote in 211 congressional districts last Nov. 4, while Republicans did as well in only 37 districts.

Who would hae belieed it 20 years ago if he had been told that something like a ball-point pen would become so cheap it would be given away by the millions for advertising purposes and virtually replace both the pencil and the fountain pen in everyday use?

Apparently the hottest idea in show business at the moment is the presentation of the whole darned family — and I found it charming to meet the Roy Rogerses, the Gordon MacRaes and the George Montgomerys on the Dinah Shore show.

It is only my imagination, of course, but I feel uneasy when a scoring play in professional football is called back because a flag was dropped by an official who spotted an offense he could have spotted on almost any other play.

Nothing I am forced to buy to keep myself halfway presentable strikes me as sillier than an overcoat, which is worn only a few minutes a day and hangs in a closet six months or more every year.

On the rare occasions when I make a minor repair on an automobile, I am a proud as if I had invented the horseless carriage. My latest triumph was to repair the heater with a piece of tin I found among the oddments in the barn.

I do not consider a humorist to be funny unless he earns his money without props. Anyone can get a laugh if he has enough crazy contraptions on the stage with him.

There is a kind of danger present in our times that is utterly terrifying — the danger of being killed or mained by an empty-headed teen-ager who has grown up with no sense of right or wrong and no sense of restraint, but has not been caught and caged in time to avert damage.

Now that someone has suggested it would be an improvement if the Christ image that has been familiar for hundreds of years be brought up to date by removal of the beard and the strange costume, will it follow in due course that Santa Claus will be clean-shaven and rigged out in a busines suit?

Morse's Low Blow

By RAYMOND MOLEY

What Happened to Committee on Clean Politics?

On the Saturday before election in Oregon, there burst in the Oregon press a charge against the Republican candidate for governor, Mark Hatfield. The charge was made by Sen. Wayne Morse. It threw his own party followers, including Democratic candidate Robert Holmes, seeking re-election, into utter consternation.

It also loosed from the people of the state a vehement condemnation of Morse's attack. The result was a big vote for Hatfield which carried him into office.

Morse brought up an incident in the early life of Hatfield which had been well known to the Democratic high command but which it had firmly refused to use.

Eighteen years ago, when Hatfield was 17, he had while driving his car struck and killed a little girl of 7.

It was not a hit-and-run case, for Hatfield had done all that he could after the accident. His defense was that he had not seen the victim before he struck her. But the courts decided against him.

AMERICANS have an admirable habit of rejecting a man's past, for which atonement has been made, as a political issue. This sense of fairness Morse flagrantly offended.

Morse is a lawyer who was once dean of the Oregon University Law School. His defense for his action has been that he was not making the charge because Hatfield had killed the girl but because his defense has been overruled by the Supreme Court.

The chief justice of that court at that time, now retired, immediately overruled Morse by pointing out that to charge perjury in this case would make a perjurer of every litigant who ever lost a case.

But while Morse poses as a legal master, he is essentially a professional orator. As such, he faces the awful peril—the occupational disease—that threatens those who live by that art.

He has shown symptoms of this malignant weaknes before—in his implacable hatred of Sen. Taft; in his intemperate attacks upon President Eisenhower, recently culminating in likening the chief executive to Dave Beck; and in other outbreaks of that sort, along with his unbelievably absurd oratorical antics on the floor of the Senate.

I knew Morse well when he was at the Columbia School of Law in 1929. He told me then that he was writing a book on the oratory of the elder La Follette.

Prior to that, he was teaching public speaking in Minnesota.

For him, then and always since, the word—the spoken word—is the beginning and the end of things.

Now we see that the word is first a servant, then a master, then a cruel tyrant, and, finally, such a man's executioner.

THERE IS WHAT has been called the awful "isolation of the pulpit." The orator stands first in the legitimate province of the advocate, but gradually, as the toxic influence of the crowd dulls his sense, he moves to the quicksands of agitation.

Finally, sensation must mount upon sensation, or the spell is broken.

Ever and ever the excited crowd lures the speaker—to affirmation, to exhortation, to vehemence, to vituperation. All must end in failure, for the crowd's appetite is illimitable.

Unhappy with the limitations of human speech, the crowd turns from its magician in resentment or in disgust. The orator ends in exhaustion or tragedy or in bathos.

Morse has come close to the end of this trail. In the new Congress his vote will not be needed by the party to which he turned in passionate pique. Its majority is very large.

He has created an enemy of his junior, Sen. Neuberger. He has injured his party in Oregon, which regards him as an insufferable burden.

He will be lonely there and in Washington, just as were those captured by their own excesses before—the Bleases, the Heflins, and others.

Morse is literate. I would suggest a course in history. There he might find plenty of clinical examples of famous orators who were the victims of their words.

By the way, whatever became of Charles Taft and his committee, or something, on clean politics?

1958 Pilgrims

By JOHN N. ADAMS

We Americans want to believe we are a grateful and generous nation and so today, when we pause for grace before the traditional turkey feast, we will give thanks for the material blessings of the past year.

In doing this, we will be perpetuating a tradition established by the Pilgrims at Plymouth Colony on the first American Thanksgiving Day in 1621. They gave thanks for a bountiful harvest and for survival after a year in a hostile wildernes with which they were ill prepared to cope.

Their own supply of food had been exhausted months before. Their clothing had been poor protection against the frigid New England winter. They had no medical supplies. Before the spring of 1621, more than half of the original band that had set out from Holand had died.

Had it not been for the friendly Indian Squanto who taught the Pilgrims to hunt and fish in the winter and to plant and cultivate the grain they had found in the Indian villages, even the handful of survivors would have added little more than a footnote in the pages of history.

So it was particularly apropriate, after an abundant harvest, that the Puritans should invite a band of friendly Indians to a three-day feast to give thanks in celebration of their deliverance.

BUT THE PURITANS were as ill prepared to deal with humankind as they were to cope with the forces of nature.

When the celebration was just getting started, Capt. Miles Standish injected a crisis into the affair by firing of the colony's cannon and parading his band of 19 men, armed with blunderbusses, before the assemblage.

The Indian chiefs and their 90 braves suspected a plot to massacre them, but again Squanto rescued them from the brink of disaster by assuaging the fears of the savages.

We have learned many things since that first Thanksgiving Day but like the Puritans we still have not learned about humanity or about the road to contentment and peaceful living in America.

In the technology age which now surrounds us, we are as unprepared for the wilderness of the space era as were those colonists for the unknowns of their new surroundings.

We have begun to harness the energy of the atom. We have learned to produce meat and grain in abundance. We have learned to convert coal, oil and ores into useful products to serve us.

BUT OF THE DREAM of peaceful relations of men between men, race between race and nation between nation there is little trace.

All of the products of man's creativeness have grown into monsters more terrifying than the wilderness and its hostile inhabitants that threatened destruction of the early settlers on these shores.

With all our progress we hold to the belief that there are two kinds of people, the tough-minded and the naive and only the tough will survive.

In our civilization we believe that the battle is to the strong and so nations stockpile more and more atom bombs to keep ahead of their enemies who are stockpiling more and more atom bombs.

COMPASSION is taken as a sign of weakness and gifts from the abundance of food and clothing are made in return for military bases and other warlike considerations.

Nevertheless, in spite of the widespread popularity of such ideas, if man were not basically tenderhearted, as well as endowed with a superior mentality, he would long since have joined the list of wild animals that are now extinct.

While man has never before lived in an age of such great scientific accomplishments never has he been so filled with frustrations and tensions. His insecurity has driven him to seek solution in greater and greater material progress, even to try to fly to the moon for escape from his confusions.

Never has he needed so deeply a Squanto to teach him to cultivate his fellow man. In our prayers this Thanksgiving, let us ask for a spiritual leadership that will teach us to use intelligence for good instead of evil and pull us back from the brink of disaster.

SALEM UNIT of the Ohio Cosmetologists Association will install officers Dec. 8 in conjunction with the Christmas dinner party at the Lape Hotel.

The new officers, elected at the club's November meeting in the Timberlanes, are: President, Mrs. Alice Tobin of Sebring; first vice president, Miss Ethel Kelly of Alliance; second, Mrs. Paul Ritchie; third, Mrs. Esther Dunn; secretary, Miss Mary Eileen Hagan; treasurer, Miss Kathryn Brantingham; state trustee, Mrs. Lawrence Kaercher; reporter, Lawrence Kaercher; historian, Mrs. Rose Drakulich.

Tustees are Mrs. Mary Lou Scheuring, chairman; Mrs. Harry DeLong, Miss Mary Schaeffer of Alliance and Mrs. Emma Bonfert.

Mrs. Kaercher has been accepted into the Ohio State Official Hair Fashion Committee.

Jamaica Is Study Topic For Women's Meeting at Church

The November meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship was held recently at the First Christian Church with 56 members present.

The meeting was opened with a poem, "Joy of the Harvest," and a prayer by the president, Mrs. Darrell Rowlands.

Announcement was made that the Esther Group will hold a supper Dec. 12 in conjunction with a bazaar to be given by the Martha Group. Both benefits will be held at the church.

Mrs. James Semple was program leader. "Jamaica Missions" was the title of the playlet presented by Mrs. Fred Schramm, Mrs. Burrows Jones, Mrs. Perry Huffman, Mrs. Arthur Borton and Mrs. Clinton Boals. It described the difficulties Jamaica has had during the past 100 years of Christian missionary work.

Julius Oliver Beardsley, the first Christian Church missionary, was there in 1858. He helped to establish the Duke Street Christian Church in Kingston, Jamaica, which is observing its centennial.

The Thanksgiving worship was given by Mrs. Calvin Filler, with an appropriate prayer and story. The group sang "America" and Mrs. Schramm accompanied them at the piano. "Now Thank We All Our God" was sung by Mrs. Filler.

The Lydia Group were hostesses and served lunch from a buffet table set with Thanksgiving appointments. Mrs. Joseph Emelo was chairman.

The next meeting will be in January.

Methodist Church Club Is Formed, Officers Selected

C. W. Kaminsky was elected as president when the Methodist Men Club was recently organized at a gathering of 50 men in the First Methodist Church.

Other officers elected are: Vice president, Delmer Smith; secretary, Richard Karlis; treasurer, Darrell Fadely; reporter, Russell Hackett.

Assisting in organizing the new club were Daniel Mirto, president of the Methodist Men at Trinity Methodist Church, Youngstown and James Owens, lay leader of the Youngstown district.

The local club will hold its charter meeting Jan. 22 at the church. All men who register for membership on or before that night will become charter members.

Two projects have been undertaken by the club. The group has arranged for a city-wide gathering of Youth Fellowships of the various churches to be held Sunday night in the Methodist Church, and the men will serve the family night coverdish dinner Dec. 21 at the Methodist Church.

Entertainment at the family night affair will be provided by Junior High students from the Intermediate Youth Fellowship. There will be selections by the Mae Luxis Choir, directed by Mrs. William Snowball, and also instrumental music.

THEATER'S SOLD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Controlling interest was sold Wednesday in six Columbus movie houses owned by the J. Real Neth theater chain. Neth, who anounced the deal, did not disclose the purchase price.

Mothers Club Plans Yule Charity Project

Plans were completed for the Christmas charity project when the Progressive Mothers Club met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Richard Albright of E. 9th St.

The club will provide baskets of groceries, clothing and toys for two needy families during the holidays.

Mrs. Margaret Fauldo of Youngstown was presented as the guest speaker. She gave an illustrated talk on "Christmas Ideas," showing how decorations for the home can be made from dried materials, flowers, and a number of other ordinary items as well as more elaborate arrangements.

Members answered roll call by revealing what they want for Christmas.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Burrows Jones, Mrs. Lionel Smith, Mrs. Charles Trotter, Mrs. Henry Zimmerman and Mrs. William Woolf.

Associate hostesses were Mrs. Donald Reichert and Mrs. Russell Limestahl.

The next meeting will be Dec. 9 at the home of Mrs. Don Smith of N. Union Ave.

Becomes Engaged

Joyce Louise Lora

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Lora of RD 1, Salem, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Louise, to Robert J. Stallsmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stallsmith of RD 4, Salem.

Both Miss Lora and Mr. Stallsmith are 1958 graduates of Goshen Union High School. Miss Lora is employed as secretary by Fitch & Kendall, Attorneys at Law. Her fiance is a student at Kent State University.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Leah Doyle, William F. Irey Wed In First Baptist Church

William F. Irey and his bride, the former Leah Doyle, are residing at 317 Washington Ave. following their honeymoon trip.

The couple were married Friday in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. R. J. Hunter officiated at the double ring ceremony, which was witenssed by the immediate families and close friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Doyle of El Cajon, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. James I. Irey of 1203 Jennings Ave. are the bridegroom's parents.

A corsage of pink carnations and fern complemented the bride's gray suit. She wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. James Irey Jr. of Salem, matron of honor, was attired in a black suit with royal blue accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of red carnations and fern.

James Irey Jr. of Salem served his brother as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Red baby mums surrounded the three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple. Lighted candles completed the decorations.

The couple are 1957 graduates of Salem High School. Mrs. Irey is employed as a fountain manager by the Kresge Co. Her husband is employed as a carpenter by Oliver Conser.

Travelers Club Hears Talk on European Trip

Travelers Club held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Smucker House with Mrs. Lloyd Gordon presiding.

Mrs. Joel Snarp, club representative to the Salem Federation of Women's Clubs, gave a report on the federation activities.

The program, "Flight 711," was presented by Mrs. A. C. Bartholomew. A former interior decorator, Mrs. Bartholomew spoke on "Vagabonding — With a Decorator's Eye." She told of her European trip last summer in which she visited England, Scotland, Germany, Austria, France and the World's Fair in Brussels.

She exhibited dolls from the various countries, carved wooden figurines, Scotch plaid stoles and handbags. In England she visited many ancient castles, describing Hapfield House and Haddon Hall.

Mrs. Maurice Sandrock read President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving message, and gave a history of the proclamation inaugurated by President Washington in 1789 and revived by President Lincoln in 1863.

A social hour was enjoyed when tea was served by the social committee comprised of Mrs. Thomas Moore, chairman, assisted by Mrs. James Carpenter, Mrs. Eugene Young, Mrs. Charles McCorkhill and Mrs. Walter Strain. A Japanese arrangement of bronze mums and sprays of yellow gladioli centered the tea table. Green tapers and Japanese figurines completed the motif.

The next meeting is Dec. 2.

Saxon Lodge Plans For Special Events

Branch 19 of the Saxon Lodge will meet Monday at 8 p.m. for its monthly business meeting and again on Dec. 21 at 1:30 p.m. to elect new officers. George Ulrich will preside.

The lodge will have its Christmas party Dec. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the hall. Santa Claus will be on hand to present a gift to each child in attendance, and there will be games and dancing.

Del Rezek and his polka band from Girard will play for dancing at the New Year's Eve party on Dec. 31. A sauerkraut and susage supper will be served at midnight. The public is invited.

THREE PROJECTS NEAR COMPLETION — Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 9 distributed Thanksgiving favors to patients at City Hospital, the Central Clinic and Ruth's Convalescent Home Tuesday afternoon. The girls are also packing clothes for underprivileged children in the Appalachian Mountain area and are making three complete layettes for local needy families for Christmas. The three patrol leaders are pictured above (l. to r.) with their projects: Janet Wagmiller, Peggy Wilson and Nancy Jensen. There are 22 girls in the troop, with Mrs. James Wright as leader. Assistant leaders are Mrs. Anthony Brelih, Miss Marjorie Jensen and Miss Sue Perrault.

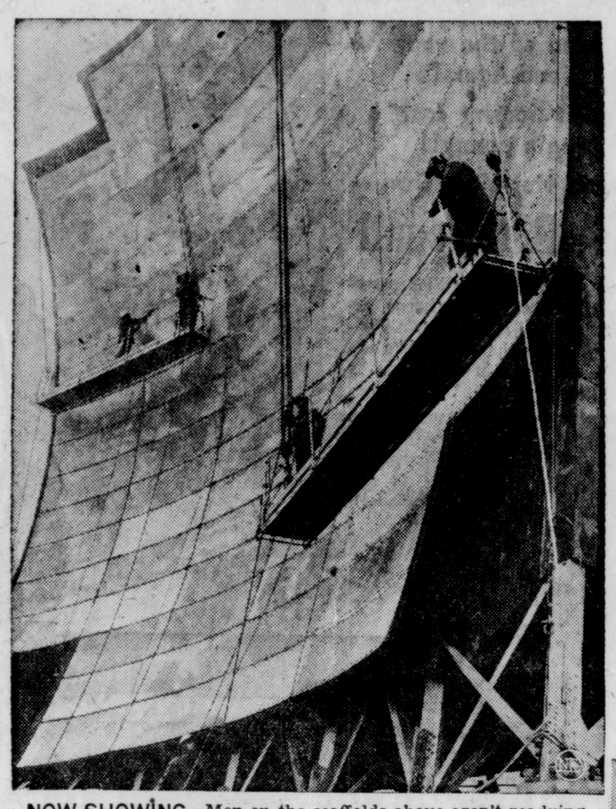
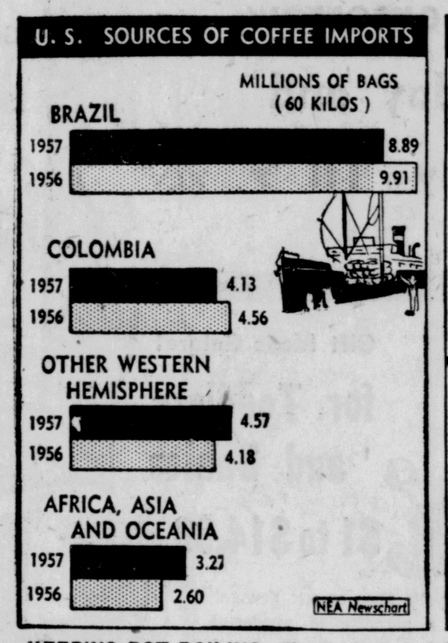
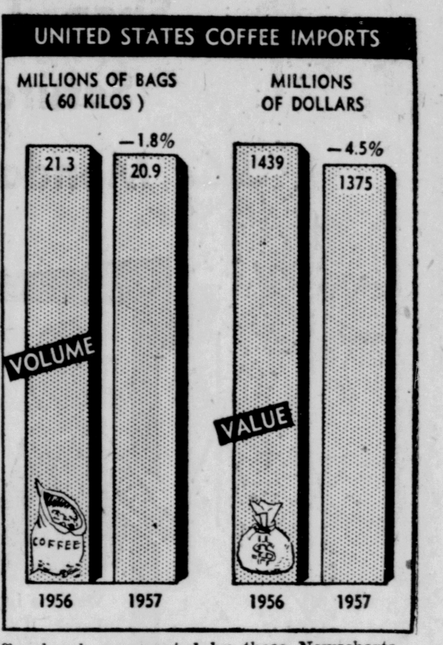
News From Here And There As Seen By Cameramen

FOOTPRINTS IN THE DUST—There's a lot astronomers have not yet found out about the moon. Particularly puzzling are the huge dark "seas" they have observed through telescopes. Drawings depict three possible answers the first spacemen might discover when their ships touch down. The first school of thought, left, suggests that the "seas" are a thin layer of dust over a solid surface. Then there are those who say that the dust, as fine as baby powder, is perhaps two miles deep, center. Finally, some adhere to the belief that the areas are covered with hardened lava and will make excellent landing spots.



NOW SHOWING—Men on the scaffolds above aren't readying a new curved panoramic screen for an outdoor movie theater. They're caulking the surface of a 60-foot parabolic antenna, one of many in Alaska's "White Alice" communications system. "White Alice," a telephone and telegraph network, stretches 3,100 miles across our newest state, providing communications for the military, Civil Aeronautics Administration and the public. Huge antennas like this make it possible to send messages over hundreds of miles of arctic wilderness.

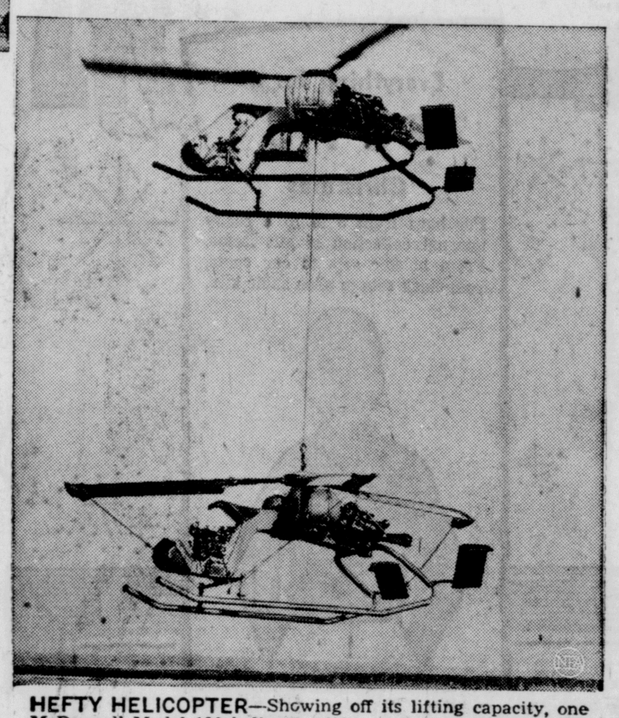




KEEPING POT BOILING—There's many a coffee break represented by these Newscharts. The use of soluble coffee and methods of getting more cups from each pound are represented by the decrease in imports, right. At left, where the beans come from.

DEADLY DROPPER—A destroyer's sonar unit detects and pinpoints an enemy submarine. Minutes later, a helicopter, like this jet-powered Alquette II, takes off from the ship. Hovering over the sub, it drops a homing torpedo that's almost a sure kill. That's what's behind the picture above, taken at Newport, R.I. where the hunter-killer team demonstrated their technique under simulated battle conditions. With a 'copter as an anti-sub adjunct, a destroyer's horizon and kill capacity are increased by hundreds of square miles.

TRUNDLE TRUCK—Snuggling up under the wing of a Boeing 707 jet airliner, this low-slung Turbo-Tug hooks onto the big plane's landing gear to tow the ship. Powered by a gas turbine, the "low bridge" vehicle is produced by Napco Industries of Minneapolis, Minn. Photo courtesy of Aviation Week.



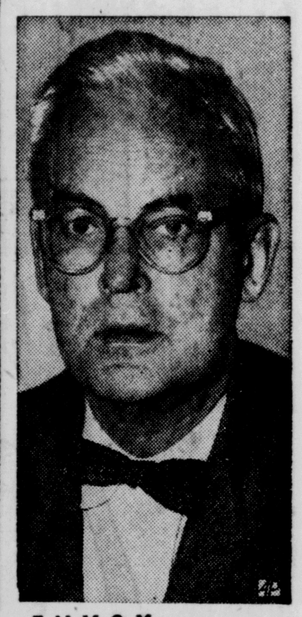
HEFTY HELICOPTER—Showing off its lifting capacity, one McDonnell Model 120 helicopter lifts another in a demonstration flight. It is powered by three gas turbine compressors. Compressed air is ducted to jets at the blade tips where fuel is injected and burned. This system eliminates power shaft, gear box, clutch and tail rotor. The 'copter has an empty weight of 2,400 pounds and maximum take-off weight of 6,300 pounds. Photo courtesy of Aviation Week.

COMMON CARRIER—An Arab housewife in Jericho, Jordan, does her level best to keep up with the Joneses on the way to the well. She's forced to use an old tin can while her neighbor bears a sleek pottery jug.

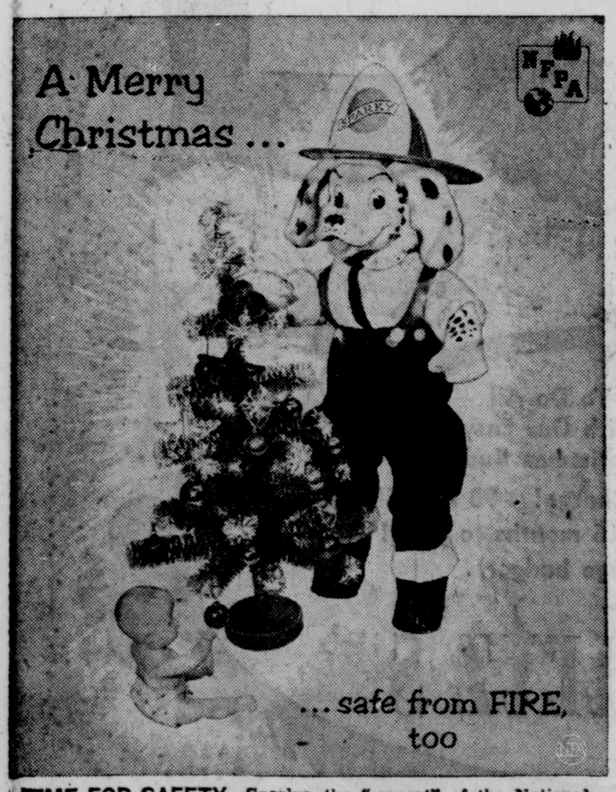
NOT-SO-DEAD PLANET—Soviet astronomer Prof. A. Kozyrev works with his telescopic instruments in Moscow. He was reported to have witnessed a volcanic eruption on the moon earlier this month. The Soviet Academy of Sciences said there was no doubt he saw the activity on the planet long thought dead.

SOLITARY CONFINEMENT—Designed to relieve the 95-million-dollar dairy industry headache of dying calves, this "Calfloo" is put into operation at the Nutrena Mills research farm in Minneapolis, Minn. The structure segregates the calf during his crucial, early period of life from disease and other bovine problems.

DOGGING IT—Three-year-old Great Dane, Dexter, leads onlookers to believe that he's really going to start that plane in Columbus, Ohio. But it has a self-starter and the 180-pounder is just using the prop as a prop to show flyers that mere humans can be replaced. The bounding enthusiast has put in about 40 hours of flight time with owner Bill Black. Dexter keeps in good trim on a daily diet of 3½ pounds of meat.

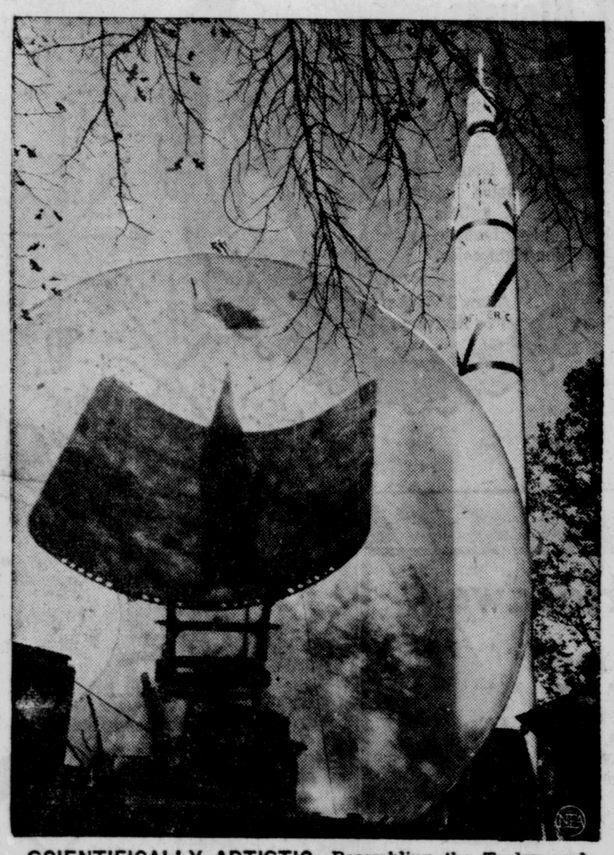


ENVOY — Richard E. Wigglesworth, 67, retiring Republican member of the House from Massachusetts, has been named by the President as ambassador to Canada.



TIME FOR SAFETY—Sparky, the "mascot" of the National Fire Protective Association, is busy making Christmas in American homes safe as well as merry this year. Some NFPA hints: Don't buy trees that have dried out, don't use lighted candles on Christmas trees, don't allow gift wrappings to accumulate in the home.

CHILD SLAYER—Jerry Roth, 23, an unemployed baker, enters a New York City police station after being arrested in the murder of a 10-year-old girl. He confessed that he tried to rape Rose Ann Breen, and then beat her to death.



SCIENTIFICALLY ARTISTIC—Resembling the Trylon and Perisphere, symbols of the 1939 New York World's Fair, a Jupiter-C missile and a plastic-domed radar unit team up at a special display in Washington, D.C. Jupiter-C is the rocket that put the first U.S. satellite in orbit. The dome houses a Hughes "Frescanar," Frequency Scanning Mobile Radar.

SETTING THEIR SIGHTS—Movie cowboy Roy Rogers joins Alan Kowalsky, 1958 poster child for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, in drawing a bead on the dreaded disease. Roy is one of the celebrities joining in the MDAA's annual fund-raising drive.

"SQUEEZE PLAY" — Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board Boyd Leedom, above, appearing before the Senate rackets committee, said the board was caught in a "squeeze play" when it took three months to count seven votes in a Nebraska teamsters union-management dispute.

Thanksgiving Fable

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A Thanksgiving fable:

Everything went right from the start. It was almost too perfect.

When Marybelle suggested, "I'd like to have my brothers and their families over for Thanksgiving," Jim, her husband, didn't argue at all. He said right away, "Why, honey, what a splendid idea."

And when Jim brought home the turkey it turned out to be, for the first time in their wedded life, just the right size for the oven.

"And not even a pinfeather left to pick," marveled Marybelle.

And when her folks arrived, Roscoe, the older stingy brother, brought a big bouquet. Russell, the younger brother who had learned from Roscoe how to be a tightwad and then gone on to improve the art himself, showed up with two bottles of fine wine.

And while the dinner was cooking, Roscoe and Russell asked Jim his political views instead of giving theirs.

And Marybelle's nine nephews and nieces all played contentedly together in the den, and none cried, and none broke anything.

And when everybody sat down at the table and the wives of Roscoe and Russell saw the new silverware Jim had bought Marybelle as an anniversary present, they admired the pattern and weren't the least bit jealous.

And when Marybelle brought in the turkey it was done to a perfect golden brown—not a burned spot anywhere.

And Jim didn't grumble or feel the least bit nervous about carving. The knife was sharp as a razor. The turkey didn't crumble like a tired cookie, but peeled off in one magnificent slice after another.

And everybody got just the kind of meat he wanted. The stuffing was a mottled delight, the gravy a brown ecstasy, the cranberry sauce a crimson thrill, and the pumpkin pie a tawny delight.

And, oh, the wine shed a rosy glow over all, and it was wonderful, wonderful all the way.

And Roscoe and Russell, protesting it had been a perfect day, waddled home.

Jim took off his shoes, and sank down happily in the sofa.

Marybelle brought him his slippers, lit his cigar for him and murmured happily, "It sure was a lucky day for me when I first saw you."

And Jim murmured, "I must be dreaming all this. Maybe we'd better pinch each other."

And they did pinch each other—and sure enough, they were dreaming.

It was 6 a.m., on Thanksgiving morning, and the day hadn't even begun.

Benson 'No Comment' On Question of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson gave the same answer Wednesday to questions whether he is (A) for or (B against Vice President Nixon for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination:

"I am not."

The questions were put separately to Benson at a news conference.

While he said he has not joined the Nixon bandwagon, Benson said "He is a good can and there are a lot of good men."

As he has done many times in the past, Benson again disclaimed any political aspirations of his own including the vice presidential nomination.

Hawk Is Rabid; Clawed Man in Batesville

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources said Wednesday that a hawk which bit and clawed a Noble County man has been found to have rabies.

The victim of the attack, Oliver Montgomery of Batesville, is undergoing treatment for rabies, the department said.

The red-shouldered hawk was caught Saturday by two unidentified boys, but the bird escaped from them and attacked Montgomery. In the struggle, the hawk was killed. It was then turned over to Don Smith, Noble County game warden. Further investigation showed the hawk to be rabid.

Grain Futures Prices Are Hit By Broad General Trade Drop

CHICAGO (AP)Another fairly broad general decline hit grain future prices Wednesday on the board of trade but some scattered buying support appeared to be developing at the extreme setbacks.

Wheat was under the strongest pressure as it had been all week and all contracts were off major fractions to as much as 1¾ cents. The bullish feeling which attracted a good demand for corn Tuesday was nowhere in evidence. A good deal of the selling was believed to be profit-taking over the Thanksgiving holiday.

One contract in the list, however, was viewed by the trade as a bargain. It was September soybeans which was bid up 1½ cents a bushel while the others were losing a half cent.

Except for an occasional temporary influence the market has been generally bearish for several weeks. Even though there has been some complaint that producer selling of crops has been slow, supplies in commercial positions are described as adequate to meet any foreseeable domestic and export requirements.

Both domestic and export demand has been slow and most processors, particularly of soybeans, are understood to have more than normal supplies on hand.

The referendum Tuesday in which corn growers voted to abolish all acreage controls on the crop had no effect on the market. Brokers reminded that corn producers virtually ignored the controls this year since only about 15 per cent of the crop was planted within allotments.

Wheat closed ½-1 cents a bushel lower, December $1.94¼-⅜; corn ¼-¾ lower, December old-type contract $1.27⅞; oats ¾ .64-¼; rye ⅝-1 cent lower, December $1.30½; soybeans ½ lower to 1½ cents higher, January $2.14-⅞.

Counsel for Sheppard Seeks Habeas Corpus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court told counsel for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard Wednesday to say by Dec. 31 who concealed evidence at the Cleveland wife-slayer's trial or forget about a habeas corpus action to free him.

Attorney William J. Corrigan claimed at a recent hearing that evidence was withheld but declined to make any identification at that time.

"He is higher than a police official," Corrigan said in answer to a question by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt.

The exchange came during a hearing on Corrigan's request for the court to change its entry denying a writ of habeas corpus sought to free Sheppard.

Corrigan asked that the entry show he was not permitted to submit evidence in a legal maneuver that would lead to an appeal to federal courts.

The Ohio court overruled the motion to amend and said the habeas corpus action would be dismissed unless Corrigan named "the authorities claimed to have concealed material evidence beneficial to him, and by specifying such evidence."

Sheppard is serving life for the second degree murder of his wife Marilyn in their Bay Village home west of Cleveland July 4, 1954.

Nixon Eyes More Talk Above World 'Freedom'

LONDON (AP)—Vice President Nixon said the defeat of communism should not be the West's main objective.

"Let us speak less of the threat of communism and more of the promise of freedom," he said at a banquet Wednesday night in London's ancient Guildhall. Prime Minister Macmillan was in the audience.

"Let us adopt as our primary objective not the defeat of communism but the victory of plenty over want, of health over disease, of freedom over tyranny."

President's Reindeer To Pass Through Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Reindeer from Alaska for President Eisenhower's Christmas parade won't run into any trouble going through Ohio.

That's the word Ted Seipel of the Utilities Commission passed on Wednesday to attorney Robert C. Smith of Indianapolis.

An Alaskan donated the two dozen reindeer. A trucking firm in Portland, Ore., offered to car the reindeer to Washington.

The Interstate Commerce Commission granted permission to do that without paying any special taxes or fees. Smith was assigned to see what red tape, if any, there would be in moving the reindeer through Indiana and Ohio.

He telephoned Seipel of the commission's Motor Transport Division. Seipel said to just drive through Ohio.

Check Received to Pay For Printing Petitions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown today received a check to pay for printing petitions to put the charitable lottery question on the Ohio ballot.

Richard Conn of Toledo mailed the certified check for $462.50 to Brown.

He is seeking to change the Ohio Constitution, which prohibits lotteries of all types—whether for charity or personal profit.

81 Die at Crossing In Ohio During 1958

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eighty-one motorists were killed in Ohio in unsuccessful attempts to beat trains to crossings during the first 10 months this year.

That's the figure supplied Wednesday by Gordon Jeffery, director of Ohio's Department of Highway Safety.

In addition to the 81 fatalities, 166 persons were injured when their autos collided with trains in the first nine months of 1958, he said.

"The wail of a train whistle down the track can serve either as a warning to cautious drivers or a mourning for foolish ones who kill themselves and others by trying to beat a locomotive," Jeffery said.

He pointed out that holiday travel during Thanksgiving and Christmas will tempt many more motorists to take chances at railway crossings. This coupled with the icy-snowy conditions of winter, may cause even greater hazards at highway and train intersections during the rest of the year, he said.

'As a reminder," he added, "we're distributing railroassafety posters to show drivers . . . that a moment saved can be a life lost when you race a crack express" along "roads that lead to death's depot."

In all types of traffic accidents throughout the state for the first nine months this year, 1,265 persons were killed and 54,685 injured. This compares with 1,456 killed and 56,162 injured for the same period in 1957, department records show.

Yugoslavia Parliament Adopts Economic Plan

BELGRAD (AP) — Yugoslavia's Parliament adopted an economi plan Wednesday calling for a 6 per cent rise in investments in 1959, despite cancellation of Soviet help and slow progress in obtaining credits from the West.

The plan provides for investments next year to total about two billion dollars. Defense expenditures will rise 58 million dollars above this year's to a total of 660 million.

Fatal Ship's Escapees Go Home From Hospital

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — Two crewmen who escaped death in the Lake Michigan storm sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley were released Wednesday from Charlevoix Hospital.

First Mate Elmer Fleming and Engineman Frank Mays, rescued by the Coast Guard after more than 14 hours awash on a lifedraft, proceede by auto to their homes in Rogers City.

Elephant Performs Day After Killing Man

NEDERLAND, Tex. (AP) — Dorothy, the elephant who killed a man Monday by performing a headstand on his chest and face, continued her regular performance Tuesday night with the Hagen Bros. Circus.

Dorothy is the star of the elephant act with a headstand her big scene.

County Judge James Kirkland said no law applies to the case unless a complaint that the animal is a public hazard is filed. No such action has been taken.

Victim of the elephant's apparently unprovoked anger was James Lloyd, New York City, a circus employe.

The slaying occurred at Groves a suburb of Port Arthur. Nederland is nearby.

Circus employes reported that Dorothy had injured 11 other persons previously.

Give Thanks, Greenford Pastor Urges

GREENFORD — "Thanksgiving presents a challenge to Americans to put their trust in God," declared the Rev. Arvid Kuitunen, pastor of the Greenford Lutheran Church at a worship service on Thanksgiving morning.

"Here is a challenge to all true Americans to be loyal and to express their loyalty to God, to their country and to the ideals they have. This is also a demonstration of loyalty to those whom they have elected, the Congress and the President.

"As President Eisenhower has proclaimed, let today be a day of national thanksgiving. Let us, in our homes and in our accustomed places of worship, give due expression of our thanks for the blessings which have signalized our lot as a nation, and let us ask for guidance in our striving for a better world for all men.

Rev. Kuitunen pointed out that the enemies of our country hate God. "They do everything in their power to lessen the influence of the church and the real observances of these religious-national days like Thanksgiving Day."

'Don't let Thanksgiving day become just a holiday. God-trusting Americans can restore it to its real significance," he concluded.

Greenford Church Officers Chosen

GREENFORD — New Sunday School officers have been elected at the Greenford Christian Church.

They are: Superintendent, Leland Cok; assistant, Jack Mauch; secretary, Miss Verla Ann Feicht; assistant, Mrs. Clark Wisler; pianist, Mrs. Donald Beardsley; assistant, Mr. Bill Charlton; chorister, Walt Feicht; assistant, Bill Charlton; program chairman, Mrs. Drury Benton; assistant, Mrs. John Harper.

Mrs. Charles Baird, Janet Baird, Judy Harper, Phyllis and David Mauch recently became members of the Christian Church through baptism.

The Christmas party of the King's Daughter's Class of the Lutheran Church will be held Dec. 8 at Mrs. Ted Witmer's.

rather than for the building of armies."

Nixon threw in a word of praise for "that much malgined institution—British colonialism."

Recalling his travels through lands which once were British colonies, he said Britain could be proud of her colonial administrators who imbued their territories with great ideas for the future.

The banquet, held by the English-Speaking Union, capped a crowded second day of Nixon's four-day visit to Britain.

At House of Commons

He was at the House of Commons in the morning for another quick session of getting acquainted talks with British government leaders.

After that came a hurried ride to join Queen Elizabeth in a ceremony dedicating a new American chapel at St. Paul's Cathedral as a memorial to the 28,000 Americans killed in operations here and from British bases in World War II.

As dusk fell, Nixon went in bleak and rainy weather to a stately mansion near Hyde Park to pay a surprise call on Sir Winston Churchill. He and the British elder statesman, who will be 84 Sunday, talked for 24-minutes—and Nixon came out with word that he expects Churchill to visit Washington next May as guest of President Eisenhower.

Illness forced the British wartime prime minister to cancel his acceptance of an invitation to visit Eisenhower last spring.

Nixon said he and Churchill discussed world problems.

Junkins then ran to the front of the home — the flames too hot at the back — and tried to get in the house that way, but a sudden flash of flame seared his face and drove him back.

The officer was given first aid for mild burns.

Firemen from the Hanover Township Volunteer Department were first on the scene with the Hanoverton truck. They were joined later by men and the department truck stationed at Guilford Lake, and Civil Defense volunteers and tanker trucks from Winona and Lisbon joined them.

30 Firemen Fight Blaze

About 30 firemen battled the blaze which one witness described as an "inferno." The front wall of the two-story red brick home, only 10 feet from the roadway of Rt. 9, collapsed at the height of the blaze, and broke a General Telephone Co. party line wire.

Other sections of the walls collapsed or were later pulled down by firemen as they searched the charred ruins in the basement for the bodies of the two youngsters. The second body was recovered at 4 p.m.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined, according to firemen at the scene. The home was heated by a coal furnace.

Gary Lee was born Feb. 17, 1954 near Dungannon, and his brother, Ricky, was born Feb. 9, 1956 in the Central Clinic here.

They had resided in this area all their lives.

Besides their parents, they leave three brothers, John Jr., James and Larry, and three sisters, Gloria, Sandra and Lititia, all of the home; their maternal grandfather, L. G. Phillips of Lisbon; and their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Clemens of Kensington.

Services will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Maple Funeral Home in Kensington. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery at Hanoverton.

There will be no calling hours.

Attorneys Claim Pastor Convicted Improperly

Restraining Order Lifts E. Liverpool Ban Against Dairy

A temporary restraining order was issued in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon Wednesday afternoon forbidding East Liverpool municipal officials from interfering with deliveries of milk from McAllister Dairy Farms, Inc., at Warren until the court rules on the constitutionality of a city licensing ordinance under which a driver for the dairy concern was arrested Tuesday afternoon.

The order was issued by Judge Joel H. Shap on an action for injunction and declaratory judgment filed on behalf of the dairy firm by Atty. Donald D. Shay of East Liverpool.

The judge's order was three-way. It instructed the boarrd of health to issue a milk report to McAllister which will be effective from ysterday until the date the case is heard, told McAllister to pay the usual permit and inspection fees required under the ordinance and instructed the defendants not to interfere with McAllister's milk deliveries pending settlement of the case.

In its action for declaratory judgment, the dairy firm asks the court to rule on the validity and constitutionality of Ordinance No. 4303, enacted in 1954, which sets up a licensing and inspection system for concerns selling milk in Eat Liverpool. The court order give the city until Friday to answer.

Defendants are the city as a municipal corporation and 10 city officials including the board of Health.

The dairy firm acted after one of its drivers, Dennis George Langham of Warren, was arrested in East Liverpool Tuesday by police on a charge of bringing milk into East Liverpool illegally for sale.

He posted a $56 bond. No hearing has been set.

McAllister has five East Liverpool outlets. Arrest of the driver followed up on a health board announcement Nov. 5 that the concern had been denied a city milk permit for 1958. The announcement said the denial was the result of "inspection of numerous milk samples and the inspection of the milk processing plant at Warren."

Turkey Day Contests In East Are Steeped In Tradition

Pitt, Penn State Biggest Battle

Penn Plays Cornell, Brown Faces Colgate

By The Associated Press

Renascent Eastern football, original source of the idea that an afternoon in an icy stadium is the proper preliminary to a big Thanksgiving dinner, regains a share of its former glory Thursday.

With the major conference titles and the automatic bowl selections virtually wrapped up for the season, the ancient Penn-Cornell, Pitt-Penn State and Brown-Colgate tussles assume at least equal importance to the nationally televised Texas-Texas A&M encounter.

The lure of these games is largely traditional. The same thought applies to such games as Virginia Tech-V.M.I., Richmond-William and Mary, Utah-Utah State and Denver-Colorado State University — and they all fall somewhat under the shadow of the even bigger traditional classics, such as Army-Navy, coming up Saturday.

Here's what they have to offer:

Pennsylvania, whose recovery from the football doldrums began with a 14-6 upset of Cornell a year ago, can complete its most successful season in several year with a victory. Cornell, by winning, could take ome sting out of the midseason collapse that cost it a chance for the Ivy League title. They're tied for third in the Ivy now and the winner will tie Princeton for second.

Colgate doesn't figure to offer too strong opposition to Brown and the big thing here is the chance for quarterback rank Finney to take whatever Brown passing and offense records he doesn't already hold.

Pitt and Penn State, both three-time losers, still rate among the East's better teams although their bowl hopes have been dashed. Each has lost to Nebraska and Syracuse by close margins and scores against other common opponents indicate a real close tussle.

The Texas-Texas Aggie game always is a no-holds-barred affair and television viewers (NBC, 3 p.m. EST) can expect an interesting afternoon though there's nothing much at stake. They have identical 2-3 Southwest Conference records though Texas has the better over-all standing.

Second place in the Southern Conference is at stake in the meeting between Virginia Tech (2-1) and VMI (2-1-1) and South Carolina can solidify its hold on second in the Atlantic Coast Conference by beating Wake Forest. In the Missouri Valley Conference, Wichita (1-1-1) could tie North Texas State for first place by beating Tulsa or drop almost to the bottom by losing.

Dick Bass, one of the nation's leading ground gainers, gets a big chance to grab the NCAA total offense title from Iowa's Randy Duncan when College of the Pacific goes against Fresno State.

The big one Saturday, of course, is the meeting between once tied but unbeaten Army and twice-beaten Navy in Philadelphia. Another service academy that hasn't lost yet, Air Force, risks this record against Colorado University.

Other major Saturday games include Southern California-Notre Dame, Southern Methodist-Texas Christian, Baylor-Rice, Houston-Texas Tech, Oklahoma State-Oklahoma, Alabama-Auburn, Georgia-Georgia Tech Vanderbilt-Tenessee, Florida-Miami and Mississippi-Mississippi State.

Schultz, 40, takes over from Johnny Keane who was recently named coach of the Cardinals.

Lordstown Defeats Western Reserve

Lordstown defeated Western Reserve 69-64 Tuesday night in a basketball game played at Western Reserve.

The loss was the second out of two games this year for Western Reserve.

Lordstown jumped off to a 22-12 first period lead, but Western Reserve had cut the margin to 38-33 by the intermission.

Western Reserve forged ahead 54-50 in the third quarter, but the opponents 19-10 in the final frame to gain the win.

Eddie Schobel was high for the loses with 17 morkers. James paced Lordstown with 24.

Western Reserve will play again Saturday night when it meets Lowellville in a home game.

Wharton Junior College Selected for Bowl Tilt

GULFPORT, Miss. (TP) — The Hospitality Bowl Wednesday selected Wharton County Junior College, Pioneer Conference champion, as the Texas representative in the fourth annual game here.

Wharton will meet the Pearl River Junior College Wildcats of Poplarville, Miss., Dec. 6. Wharton, with a 8-2 season record, was undefeated in conference play. Pearl River, with a 7-2 record, tied for runnerup in the Mississippi Junior College Conference.

Paralyzed Former Dodger Star Hopes to Walk

Roy Campanella Gives Thanks for 'Being Alive'

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Paralyzed Roy Campanella, facing the prospect of spending the remainder of his life in a wheel chair, called himself a lucky man today and said he had many things to be thankful for.

The former star catcher of baseball, who has slimmed down from 215 to 185 pounds after his long siege in the hospital as a result of his tragic automobile accident nearly 10 months ago, is back home.

Last Thanksgiving, robust and spry, he was eagerly looking forward to his move to Los Angeles with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Now, he puts in painful hours each day trying to rebuild his muscles in the hope that someday he may be able just to walk again.

Campy admits that day may never come but he hasn't lost hope and the warm and friendly smile that won so many friends for him is still on his thinned-down face.

"I keep telling myself how lucky I've been," he said. "I just keep thanking God I'm alive and I had a house and a family to come back to. Look at poor Mel Ott. He was in an automobile crackup too. He's dead. I'm only paralyzed. I said a little prayer for Mel and I sent him a wire but I guess he never got to read it."

Yes, Campy was home and he was happy. He no longer was burdened by the neck brace he had worn since last January when he underwent an operation on his broken neck. He is still paralyzed from the chest down, however, and he has to be lifted from his bed into the wheel chair. He has to be dressed and undressed. He is constantly attended by a male nurse. He needs an appliance on his hand to feed himself, to lift objects, to sign his name. He still has no movement in his fingers.

"Yes, I've got so many things to be thankful for," he said. "I'm thankful no member of my family was with me at the time of the accident. I'm thankful I've got all my sense. I'm thankful just to be home, surrounded by my family."

As Camp was talking, he kept caressing his 5-year-old daughter Princess, who was sitting on his lap, squealing delightedly while manipulating the battery-operated wheel chair for her daddy. Roy Jr., 10, and Tony, 8, two others of Campanella's six children were running from room to room playing a game of tag. Roy's wife Ruthe was busily engaged in the kitchen helping her mother prepare for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Roy's eyes glistened as he watched the activity.

"Look at the kids" he exclaimed. "They're not worried about me being in the wheel chair. 'Daddy's home.' That's all they care about. I have trouble keeping the out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're all in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

As Campy spoke he kept flexing his wrists, flailing his withered arms across his body, and raising them over his head. He kept pivoting his shoulders in quarter turns.

"I got to keep doing that to prevent a tightness of the muscles;" he explained. "I still have no feeling in my legs but I know my insides are all right and I feel strong.

"It's a new life for me. I'm starting all over again. You learn to put up with a lot of things you'd ordinarily gripe about. Sometimes I wonder how long this might go on. But I get such thoughts out of my head quickly. You got to keep thinking good thoughts. Otherwise you could go nutty."

Roy's voice is vibrant now as it was before the accident. Except for his arms, which are painfully thin, he looks robust enought. He visits the Institute for Physical Rehabilitation three days a week and spends five hours a day lifting weights and exercising his muscles.

Roy intends to make his first visit since the accident to the liquor store he owns in Harlem. He also does a taped-radio show once a week and he "writes" a column for a weekly newspaper. "I may have to live with this all my life," he said. "But I got to make myself believe otherwise. I got to think it will all come back. Maybe I'm fooling myself but I got to keep fighting and praying. And I know someday, with God's help, I will walk again."

Army Is Picked to Sink Navy by Two TD's

By HARRY GRAYSON

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — Everything seems a little quicker in the Army-Navy game, the 59th edition of which will be played before 102,000 at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium and millions of television viewers on Saturday.

Linemen get off the mark and slam into each other a fraction faster and harder than they do the rest of the season. When a back is hit he keeps trying for another yard. The last thing he worries about is being slammed into by somebody else.

It is as tough a game of football as the colleges see. It is one contest, this service rivalry, in which the old sports cliche — "past performances mean nothing" —holds true.

This year sport's top spectacle is embellised by as fine a pair of halfbacks as ever played the college game. With Capt. Pete Dawkins, the all-time All-America boy, and Bob Anderson, the lean Cadets strike swiftly from any part of the field. These two run, pass, receive and block.

ARMY, TIED ONLY BY Pittsburgh and that coming with the remarkable Dawkins making only a token appearance, goes into this Navy battle with what probably is its most formidable team since the Doc Blanchard-Glenn Davis era and West Point outfits immediately after World War II.

With Joe Caldwell handling the ball skillfully at quarterback and Harry Walters, the clear-'em-out blocker at fullback, operating with Dawkins and Anderson, Col. Earl H. Blaik throws the book at the other side offensively. The lonely end offense is exciting.

Yet the Black Knights are even more extraordinary on defense, having yielded only 43 points in eight outings. Bob Novogratz must have established some sort of a record for number of tackles backing up a standout line led by Bill Rowe, hard-hitting center.

Putting everything together, this handicapper has to pick Army by a couple of touchdowns.

NAVY IS SORELY HURT by the loss of Bob Reifsnyder, sidelined by an injured Achilles' tendon.

But Annapolis is deeper than West Point and has nearly as much over-all speed. Joe Tranchini, the quarterback, completed 57 passes. Joe Matalavage, a sophomore fullback, is flanked by Capt. Dick Dagampat and Joe Bellino, second year man who is a dangerous break away runner.

Navy was beaten by Tulane and swamped by Notre Dame, but otherwise showed to advantage, and John Shirreffs, a capable end who was out for five games, is back in the thick of things. The line is led by the veteran guard, George Fritzinger.

All of Saturday's action won't be confined to the huge bowl in Philadelphia. Bear Bryant will send his first and surprising Alabama varsity against Shug Jordan-drilled Auburn in the opener of what promises to be a tremendous series. The huge and mobile Auburn line figures to be too much for 'Bama this trip, but you may rest assured there are turbulent times ahead.

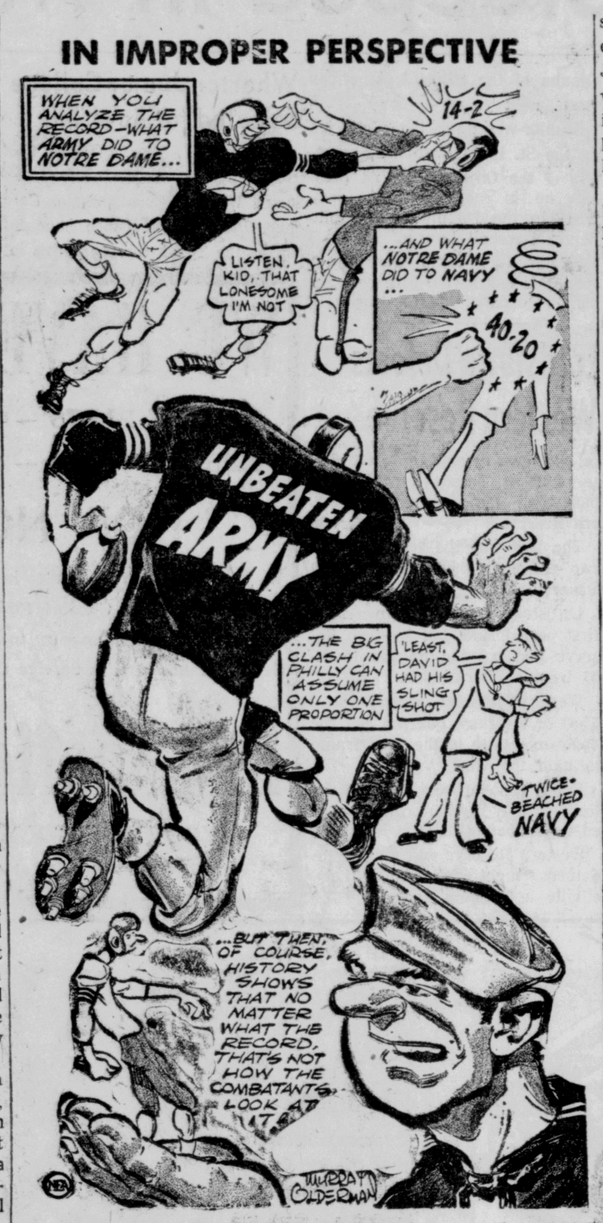
DON MEREDITH and Southern Methodist could stir up some air bumps for Texas Christian but the Froggies figure to make another successful leap en route to the New Year's Day game in the Cotton Bowl.

Colorado has the potential with which to bring down the undefeated Air Force, but probably won't. The Buffaloes fell part after the whacking by Oklahoma, which is to stretch its unbeaten skein in the Big Eight to 72 games at the expense of aspiring Oklahoma State.

Notre Dame has gone pass crazy, but the Irish should stay on the ground often enough to close out a crazy, wonderful season with a victory over Southern California.



Johansson Eyes Shot at Title

No. 1 Contender Confers With Press

NEW YORK (AP)—There is an Ingemar Johansson.

And he's a poised, good looking unmarked fighter who thinks he has a good chance of getting a crack at Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson in the United States next summer.

"He'll beat Patterson, too," said Edwin Ahlquist, Swedish promoter and "advisor" of the undefeated heavyweight king from Sweden.

"I hope so," was Ingemar's comment."

Johansson and Ahlquist came out of involuntary seculsion Wednesday to meet the press and they think there is a good chance of making the title fight.

"I can't think of any obstacles in the way," said Ahlquist in reply to a question.

"That's his opinion," said D'Amato. "I have no comment."

But he did later, about 5,000 words worth. It was all said, too, in an oft-interrupted comic opera press conference in Cus' crowded, two-room studio apartment on Broadway.

Ahlquist said the trip was worth while. He said he intended to come back in January with the hopes of having everything settled.

"I must know by February the latest whether Ingemar will fight Patterson,' said Ahlquist.

"If we don't get it decided then I intend to go ahead with two important fights, one I will promote in Sweden with Ingemar against a leading American. The other would be a big one in ondon — a European title fight against the winner of the Brian London-Henry Cooper English title fight.

"Everything is up to D'Amato. He is the key. He manages the world champion."

Some 50 reporters, photographers, radio men and D'Amato aides milled around in the living room.

"Gentlemen," said Cus. "First I want you to know that these two fine gentlemen from Sweden met secretary with us because I wanted it that way.

"I am dealing in five possible fights for Patterson and the Johanson fight is just one of them. We have received a guarantee of substantially more than $250,000 for a fight in Colorado Springs to meet one of five top ranking fighters. Outside of that I can't tell you any more."

MISMATCH — Big Joe gives a sausage-sized entry the once-over during the National Fox Hunters Bench Show at Starkville, Miss. The bigger fox hound was nonplussed at the sight of Heinie at a hunt show, where he didn't belong.

Corsairs Win 24-12; Phillis Sees Action

The Santa Monica City College (Cal.) football Corsairs won their eighth straight game of the season last week defeating East Los Angeles 24-12.

Larry Phillis, a member of Salem's 1957 team, played over a quarter in the contest mainly as a defensive lineman.

The Corsairs are a leading contender to be one of the teams that will compete in the Junior Rose Bowl. They captured the Metropolitan Conference to merit the consideration. They end their season today against Mesa, Colorado.

Hot Stove Leagues To Hold Drawings

The Salem Hot Stove Baseball Leagues will hold a drawing of players Friday at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Home.

All managers of Class G teams are urged to be present in order to draw players moving up from the Class H teams.

5 Michigan Students Placed on Probation

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Five University of Michigan students have been placed on probation for their part in the sale of football spot cards.

Included in the group are two athletes, basketball captain Jack Lewis and football fullback Tony Rio.

The probation action was taken by the university on recommendation of the Joint Judiciary Council, a 10-member student government group.

Probation prohibits taking part in any extra curricular activity.

The probation will be effective for the remainder of the school year. Thus Rio would be eligible for football next season provided the athletic department and the Big Ten Conference approved. Lewis must miss the basketball season.

Others placed on probation were Michael Dodgson of Grand Rapids, Nick Mitea of Ecorse and John Miller of Utica. All were charged with conduct unbecoming a student.

Life of Grand Jury Is Extended by Judge

NEW YORK (AP) — General Sessions Judge Charles Marks Wednesday extended until next April 30 the life of the New York County grand jury which is investigating charges of racketeering and corruption in professional boxing.

The extension of the grand jury's life, which began last April, was requested by Alfred J. Scotti, chief assistant district attorney.

Scotti told the court that the grand jury had no completed its work. Since its inception, the grand jury has indicted several alleged figures of the underworld as undercover fight managers, including Frankie Carbo, reputed underworld czar of boxing, who still is a fugitive from the indictment.

Clemson Reportedly Set For Sugar Bowl Game

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Journal said Wednesday that Clemson will play in the Sugar Bowl next Jan. 1 if it defeats Furman this weekend.

A story by Gregory Favre said it was learned that Clemson had received and accepted an invitation to meet LSU in the New Orleans football classic.

The storry added the agreement contains a stipulation that if Clemson should lose to Furman, the pact will be broken, but it added that a Clemson victory "is considered a mortal lock."

In New Orleans, Claude Simons, president of the Sugar Bowl, said no invitation had been extended to Clemson.

Western Reserve PTA To Convene Monday

BERLIN CENTER — Western Reserve Local Parent Teacher Organization will meet Monday evening at the Ellsworth building, with J. S. Harrington, president, in charge of the meeting.

The program committee has arranged to have Mrs. Margret Wollitz from Ohio Bell Telephone Co. as guest speaker. Her topic is "Your Voice is You." Lunch will be served.

Rutgers' Bill Austin Is Week's Top Back

By The Associated Press

Billy Austin, whose playing status was not known until shortly before the kickoff, Wednesday was named back of the week for the sensational finish he put on his Rutgers football career.

Playing with a heavy bandage on his broken left hand, the slender single wing tailback scored five touchdowns and ran for two conversions in the 11 times he handled the ball as Rutgers routed Columbia 61-0.

Despite the remarkable showing, Austin was the pick of Associated Press sports writers and broadcasters by only a narrow margin over halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State, Dick Bass of College of the Pacific, and Southern Methodist's Don Meredith.

Austin's 34 points gave him a season's total of 106.

Canon received solid support for his work in the 62-0 rout of Tulane which enabled LSU to conclude its regular season unbeaten. He scored three times including the lid-lifting touchdown, gained 108 yards in 14 carries and intercepted a pass deep in Tiger territory.

Bass romped for six touchdowns and 191 rushing yards as COP smothered San Diego State.

In SMU's 33-29 hair-raiser over Baylor, Meredith was the difference—and more. The clever junior quarterback ran for two touchdowns and 50 yards while passing for a third score and 206 yards.

APPLICATION GRANTED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communications Commission Wednesday granted applications for new radio stations, including:

East Liverpool, Ohio, East Liverpool Broadcasting Co., FM, 104.3 megacycles.

TRY TO REPEAT — Bob Bryant, left, was the target for Bobby Lackey's fourth-period Texas pass that upset Oklahoma. Austin rooters would like to see more of the same in the annual big one with Texas A. and M. on Thanksgiving Day. Aggies proved worth beating Rice.

McCulloch's THE STORE With The CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Punch Bowl Holds Secret for Entertaining

A big party is easier, less costly, and more fun than several small ones, according to Jean Shaw, director of the Coldspot home service department at Sears, Roebuck. She has entertained 75 in one fell swoop in her own small apartment.

Plan your party decor, as well as your party menu, around the punch bowl. If you haven't a traditional silver or crystal punch bowl, raid the china closet for a substutute. A silver or iron-stone soup tureen, a big pottery bowl, even an oversizer pitcher, will fill the bill.

Apple cider is a basic punch ingredient certain to appeal to both children and grownups. Try diluting frozen lemonade with apple cider instead of water and floating it in a gay holly wreath made of ice.

To make the wreath, fill a ring mold with water and freeze. Pure bottled water and fast freezing will keep the ice from clouding and provide a crystal-clear housing wreath under warm running water and arrange holly leaves and craberries on the bottom of the ring mold. Now, replace the ice wreath and add a bit more water. Refreeze. Float the ice wreath upside-down in the punch bowl so the holly shows up well. To carry through the theme, surround the bowl with holiday greeenery and tiny red Christmas balls. A functional decoration, the ice wreath keeps the punch chilled without watering it down as ice cubes would.

HOLLY ICE wreath brightens holiday punch bowl. Arrange and freeze pure bottled water, holly leaves and cranberries in ring mold. Unmold by holding under warm running water, then refreeze until ready to serve punch.

Hot punch is equally simple to make and has special glamor this time of year. Try a real old English Wassail bowl of hot spiced cider. You'll need 3 large oranges, 3 lomons, 1½ teaspoons allspice, 1 gallon cider, ½ ounce cinamon stick, 1 quart cold water,, 1 cup sugar. Squeeze the juice from fruit and set aside. Place half of the rinds in a kettle with cold water and spices. Cover kettle tightly and let simmer about two hours. Strain the spice mixture. Now put sugar, fruit juice and cider into a large kettle and pour the spicy liquid over it. Heat to boiling point, pour the punch into a preheated punch bowl, and float unpeeled red apple wedges on top.

Teenagers 'Go for' Buffet Style Parties

Teen-agers are always eager to participate in holiday gaiety. And what could be more fun than entertaining their friends at a buffet party?

A delectable menu that's easy to prepare is patty shells filled with a tuna-cheese-black olive mixture. Punch is made by heating cider, lemon juice and spices. For dessert, serve ice cream with a fruit sauce and cookies made from a mix.

And to make the party perfect, the setting should sparkle and catch the eye. Just grab a roll of aluminum foil, staples, artificial pine greens and Christmas balls and your table centerpiece is about made.

Intemperance Should Be 'X' In Christmas

Too much of a good thing, food or drink, can easily dampen the high spirits of the holiday season. A steady hand and strong heart to push away that "one for the road" and that second helping are the best defenses against hangover, hiccups and upset stomach.

Physicians explain that a drink may aid relaxation and release of tension. Many drinks, however, will blur good feelings—for alcohol is a depressant on the nervous system.

The body is able to dispose of one ounce of whisky per hour. After thrre ounces in an hour, inhibitions are weakened and judgement blunted, depending on individual reactions. After six hookers the alcohol in the bloodstream staggers motion and slurs speech.

The process is slowed when there is food in the stomach; accelerated, it is said, when the drink is carbonated, like champagne.

Too much food, though hard to avoid at Christmas dinner, can bring on that heavy, uncomfortable feeling commonly recognized as dyspepsia.

To calm the digestive upset, the first step is to get rid of excess acid. There is a new antacid for relief from heart-burn and it need not be chewed, thereby eliminating the chalky taste. A carbonated soft drink also will ease that heavy stomach feeling.

Hiccups? Two physicians of Boston's Lahey Clinic report that most old wives — remedies for curing simple hiccups are effective. Blowing into a paper bag, being frightened or pressing on the eyeballs setup counter irritations and really work.

Books for Children Spark Imagination

Books unfold an exciting world for children and fit under the Christmas tree for all ages. Remember, most children's books are not dated and a book is always new to a child who has never read it.

A new book for the season is Mary Alice Jones' "Tell Me About Christmas," for children 4 to 9. Another worthwhile book for older children is "One God—the Ways We Worship Him," by Florence Fitch.

Science and space is unfolded in "Book of Science for Boys and Girls," by Earl Schenck Miers, for 8 to 12 ages. Those 10 years and older will like "Strange Plants and Their Ways," and "Insects—Hunters and Trappers," both by Ross E. Hutchins or "Neighbors in Space," about the solar system, and "The Complete Book of Space Travel," for teenagers by Albro Gaul.

And don't forget storybooks, especially those horse stories. Margurerite Henry has a new one out called "Black Gold."

Collections include "read Me More Stories," "More Read to Yourself Stories," and "Aesop for Children," Older boys and girls will like "Fayorite Poems Old and New,"

Pretty Padded Pooches, Pandas Plenty Popular

The stuffed animal kingdom is full of cuddlesome surprises this Yuletide.

New developments in textile finishes mean high pile, lightweight plush fabrics. The resulting cashmere feel will make tots happy with new pooches, bears and pandas.

The hound dog still is top dog with the playroom crowd. Its newest talent for pouty pooches is a tear embilished expression.

And the musical stuffed toy features a zipper pocket for the music box so that it can be removed on wash day.

Attention Stock Stuffers:

Stores Are 'Goldmines of Values'

Families who've given up the Christmas stocking miss loads of fun and closeness on Christmas Eve and the morning after.

While stockings cannot hold spectacular gifts that children have come to expect, they can be chock full of humerous and useful items.

Variety stores are a gold mine of inexpensive little items. They are fun to select and open when the family is together.

Mother's stocking, for example, could have a small bottle of hand lotion, a timer for a three-minute egg, her preferred lipstick, her favorite penny candy, a new pot-holder to prevent burned fingers —and a jar of petroleum jelly in case she does burn her fingers.

If Dad's a bulb-snatcher, his stocking could have his own private light bulb, as well as a septic pencil for shaving nicks, a bottle of dog deodorant to keep Fido off his favorite chair, a spinning lure for his tackle box and an expensive cigar.

LEATHER rings gift circle from cigaret lighter, French evening purse with mesh chain to ostrich keycase.

NOTE paper makes great stocking stuffer and provides incentive for those holiday "T[illegible] you" notes.

Young Johnny could find a washcloth with his name on it to wash behind his ears, a bag of bubble gum, a baseball, a tube of hair cream for his cowlick, a bag of marbles and a penknife for playing mumblety peg.

Sis will enjoy finding a small bottle of toilet water, a little dressing-table set (including brush, comb and mirror), barrettes or ribbons for her hair, a personal dish towel for helping mother and a set of manicure implements.

Spotless Kitchen Area Adds Charm to Holiday

A spotless, orderly kitchen ads its charm to holiday entertaining. So sponge clean all cupboards and applicances well in advance of the shopping rush. Clean floors, too, using a long-handled sponge-type mop to save energy and use a rapid drying cleanser that doesn't need rinsing —all of which leaves you with more pep for holiday fun.

A few decorations in the kitchen, meanwhile, add continuity and a cheery note while doing the cooking. If you have a bulletin board, pin some colorful Christmas cards on it. Or put short pine branches in a bowl on the window will or a shelf and attach some tinsel, tiny Christmas balls or little bows, so that it looks like a miniature tree.

INSIDE DOOR, TOO

Consider a decoration for the inside of a door. Here's one idea. There are decorative golden baroque flat scrolls that look like a lacy metalwork design. These can be arranged effectively with Christmas balls in your favorite color.

Population of Wisconsin has been estimated at more than 3,750,000.

Preparation Simplifies Yule Shopping

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Know how to survive the Christmas rush?

Take it in stride.

You'll be tempted to do all your shopping in one day or leave it until the last minute, but don't succumb. Here are some ideas to mull over for a more relaxed shopping spree:

1. Shop early. Avoid the crowds by leaving home early and returning home early.

2. Organize your shopping thoughts before leaving home, preferably the night before. Your gift list should include two possible gifts for each name. If you don't find one settle for the other, rather than waiting 'til your feet hurt. You'll save money too, by having alternate gifts because your first impulse may be too expensive. Put the list in your handbag the night before so you will not forget it.

3. Send as many gift-wrapped packages from the stores as you can, particularly to those relatives away from home. It'll be easier for you if the store wraps and mails.

4. It's a good idea to prepare your feet for the shopping trek. Rub them with camphor ice in the morning. Mild ingredients, camphor and petroleum jelly combine to ward off aching feet. Rub your feet again when you arrive home.

5. You should have studied the ads before you set off on your shopping trip. Know the stores that carry the gifts you have in mind. This will save aimlesss wandering, and get you the best values.

6. Plan a simple evening meal for shopping day. Prepare part of the dinner beforehand, and set the table the night before. (A big beef stew may be made the night before, heated up to taste even better after a day of shopping.)

7. Dress for comfort. Stores are warm so wear lightweight clothes. Wear low-heeled shoes.

8. Eat a good breakfast in the morning so that you can eat a late lunch or tea and toast at home. Besides the expense, restaurants are crowded, and waiting in line will not improve your disposition.

9. Stop to sit down when you get a chance. This will ward off fatigue and lift your spirits, restoring energy.

10. "She who shops alone, shops fastest" might well be your clue to a happy shopping day. It's fun to shop with the girls the rest of the year, but when it comes to Christmas, you're better off alone. That goes for the youngsters too: it'll be cheaper in the long run to hire a baby sitter than pay for all the bribes you'll need to keep them quiet on this adventure.

11. Keep your sense of humor with sales people. They don't create the crowds, set the prices or manufacture the merchandise. They're tired too, so don't pick on them.

12. Stick to your budget. You don't want to pay for your Christmas fun for 364 other days. And if you charge your Christmas purchases, remember: bills catch up with you sooner or later. Don't buy more because you can charge it.

13. Relax at home after shopping. A good bath will help. Put some bath salts into the water and soak until your heart's content.

14. Get in bed with your check list. What didn't you manage to get? Make another list for your next shopping trip.

15. Just as soon as you can get to it, wrap the presents you have bought, tag them and get them out of the way.

Right Frame Highlights Room, Pulls It Together

Something wrong in a room? Perhaps the pictures aren't framed properly. A good frame selection can bridge differences in decorating periods in a room and pull it together.

For example, a print of the French impressionist school in a gilt frame is perfectly suited to a provincial decorating plan. A simple frame matted in linen complements the same print in a modern room setting.

WOOL JERSEY IS RIGHT

Wool jersey is the newest fashion fabric for men this winter. So when wondering what to put under the tree, keep this in mind. It will appear in sports shirts, sweaters, sports jackets and coats. It is a good gift for travelers, too, because it resists creases and wrinkles.

Old-Fashioned Holiday Setting Gives Table Refreshing Respite

Each year the holiday season seems to become more modern, more paced to the gimmick. So setting is a refreshing respite.

A Colonial theme with its simpolicy of line is an easy one to follow, and easy to make cut-outs lend simple, charm to a table.

A designer suggests the following for such a centerpiece:

A large cookie sheet or serving tray forms the base. Snow on the sheet is a layer of fluffy popcorn. A cutout church stands in the background and a bright sleigh in the foreground.

Fill the sleigh with "do not open 'til after dinner" gifts and each guest will take one when leaving the table. Surround the entire centerpiece with pine branches and cones.

CHRISTMAS SLEIGH

Supplies needed are heavy red construction paper, plain tape and holly-decorated tape, scissors, pencil and an empty box approximately 5x10 inches and 2 inches high.

Draw two profile outlines of an old-fashioned sleigh on paper and cut out. Tape one outline on each side of the box. Cut a strip of red paper the width of the box as high as the back of the sleigh and tape it to the end of the box, forming the sleigh's back. Decorate sleigh with holly-decorated tape.

COLONIAL CHURCH

You'll need heavy white construction paper, scissors, pencil and red crayon.

Draw church and steeple outline (approximately 12 inches tall) on heavy white construction paper. Cut out. Measure to center of base of church and draw line up 4½ inches. Draw a line 3 inches long across top of line, forming a "T" Cut along lines and fold back for doors. The slightly opened doors hold church upright. Decorate with red crayon, drawing parallel lines for louvred doors and steeple, a wreath and bow over doors.

Dough-Like Mix Makes Odd Shapes, Keeps Hands Busy

A gift item to keep little hands busy and out of mischief may be a new type of modeling mixture.

It's a dough-like mixture which cn be worked and tsisted into many odd shapes. But unlike the dough the baker uses, it will not stain nurniture, rugs or clothing if a bit of the compound falls from the fingers of small fry. And it won't stain hands. The dough also stays soft in its air-tight container when not in use.

Also fascinating to young artists is that it comes in a variety of colors. These can be blended together like paints to produce other colors. Blue and yellow will make green, red and yellow will make orange, and so on.

Gay Colors Coming Into Spotlight

Greeting Cards' Outlook Bright

No doubt about it, Americans like Christmas cards. That's why folks will buy and mail a record 2½ billion of them this year.

And with all kinds of psychological research into the whys and wherefores of our buying habits, a card manufacturing company studied who bought what kind of Christmas card.

Chances are, says American Greetings' researchers, if you're in the upper income group or live in a metropolitan area, you'll prefer slim-shaped cards. Rural buyers, they say, still prefer the conventiona, square or oblong shapes.

No matter the kind you are supposed to buy, cards in general will be more colorful, brighter and gayer. One card designed especially for the younger set, not only reads 'Merry Christmas" but also sings it. It is a 78 rpm medley of Christmas carols. And a giant 12-inch by 17-inch card contains a music box for a favorite girl.

Nudging traditional Christmas reds, whites and greens for color favorites will be blue and gold plus buffs and lavenders.

Look for simulated gems used to put sparkle to candle flames and tree ornaments. And stained-glass church windows will appear more realistic through a use of transparent acetate.

And, according to designers, Santa is expected to slide slightly from his 1957 position as most popular subject. Taking his place will be novelty designs featuring holly and reindeer.

Look, also, for an increasing number of studio-type treatments in a light, sophisticated manner such as one showing many Yuletide activities. It reads merely, "I'm pooped! Merry Christmas."

Religious cards are increasing in popularity and the use of mosaics, an old-time Italian idea, makes for more striking treatment of Nativity scenes.

And while you're in the card-sending mood, don't forget New Year's.

Cards sent at this time often double as "thank you" cards. And they also serve to cement relations with persons overlooked in compiling the Christmas card list.

SURPRISE your girl with a music box greeting. She'll open the jumbo card to the strains of "Silent Night."

YOUNGSTERS revel in the rain of holiday greeting cards. Adding an extra fillip is a Christmas card record to play over and over on the phonograph.

Christmas Lighting Is Often Overdone

Whatever you do in the way of Christmas lighting, don't overdo it. That's the advice of Myrtle Fahsbender, director of home lighting for Westinghouse, to homeowners who may be carried away by the dazzling array of ornaments and lighting "tools."

She recommends starting with a plan. Select only those features of the home, indoors and out, of which you are proudest by day and that deserve to be seen and appreciated at night, too. Accent the high spots of each with light. The more of yourself that is reflected in holdiay decorations, the more sincerely they convey a Yuletide greeting.

Tinted or colored light, especially effective when there's a white Christmas, no longer comes from colored filters clipped over clear bulbs. Colored lenses in blue green, red or yellow are an integral part of spot and flood lamps and are of heat-and weather-resistant glass for outdoor use. They make outdoor lighting more effective than before.

Those who go in for outdoor Christmas lighting are cautioned to use weatherproof cords, plugs, sockets and bulbs to insure safe operation in rain or now.

Also, when decorating it's advisable to know the difference between "series" and "multiple" burning tree bulbs. The type string determines the type bulb to buy for replacement.

In a series string,, when one bulb fails, all the others will go out. The burned-out bulb must be replaced before the others will light. In a multiple burning string, each bulb burns independently and even if one fails the others will remain lighted.

Oefore starting, though, check cord sets that have been packed away since last Christmas. As a starter spread strings of light on the floor and remove all the kink. Then examine the cords for frays or breaks and see that the sockets are in good condition. Finally, test the bulbs. Such a check-up saves time in the long run and is a safety first as well.

Many Fabric Gifts Available For Various Tastes, Budgets

Christmas presents for the home are lasting reminders of the giver's thoughtfulnesss. They also provide a wider range of items to fit varied tastes and budgets. Good guiding rules when selecting such home gifts are two - fold: Make them attractive and practical.

Decorative presents of man-made fibers fit these requirements beautifully. For example,, accent rugs of Avisco rayon would b welcomed by any homemaker with an eye for appearance and a liking for easy living. They'll take a dunking in wash tub or laundromat for easy care. Look for such colors as Aztec red, lemon gold or burnt orange as handsme accent touches.

Bedspreads are another good idea for Christmas giving. For school- or college-age members of a household, would sure l y make a hit. Styled with tartan effect plaid, this bedspread is made with thick tufts which thrive on frequent launderings. Particularly good looking in bold red or blue, the spreads may also be paired with patching cafe curtains.

For modern bedrooms, the Princess spreads from Bates seem made to order. Understated in design, they rely on texture interest and color brightness for their unmistakable appeal, offering down-to-earth practicality at the same time. Dewdrop-effect cording matches the ground cloth in colors developed by well-known textile weaver Dorothy Liebes. Outstanding colors are marigold, a pumpkin-tinged orange; larkspur, a rich blue; and emerald, a vibrant green.

Bedspreads in traditional heirloom designs are ideal gifts and more so now since they come in a lint-free, tub-happy Avisco rayon.

A warm thought for a special kind of Christmas wrapping is a soft blanket with delicate hand-screened print. This one is styled by Chatham Avisco has rayon blended with orlon for a washa'ble, color-fast blanket.

A barbecue cloth for Christmas? Why not, when it can be used for buffet suppers or informal meals throughout the party season. And a real practical find is a slightly embossed nonwoven rayon tablecloth—36 by 72 inches. It can be cut to fit any table without need for seaming or hemming.

New Styles Featured In 'Wash and Wears'

Looking for a gift that's bound to please your favorite male? Why not give him "the shirt on his back"? And finding one that' is sure to please is no problem.

If you've decided upon a dress shirt, then keep a discerning eye out for fabrics. Threading their way to sartorial prominence are the wash-and-wear groups. For example, one manufacturer, offers a complete collection in Vantage, a 100 per cent cotton material that can be washed by hand, in a machine or commercially and worn the next day without any ironing. For added fashion interest, the fabric has been translated into muted squares and stripes in attractive pastel colorings. There also are solid ones of black, green, gold and red—as well as basic white and light shades. To make life still easier, even co-ordinated neckwear is available in drip-dry fabric. And look for shirts with a one-piece collar that won't curl or wilt.

There's nary a fashion-conscious man alive that wouldn't appreciate a sport shirt, too. Look for checks, and stripes and miracle cotton that requires litle or no ironing. These are especialy handsome in all-over foulard patterns. Also in the field of wash and wear there are gabardines and blends of orlon and wool, acrilan and worsted and arnel and cotton.

Christmas colors in sportswear include not only red and green, but deep rich tones of blue, gold and brown. Men will also take a shine to lustrous, irridescent effects produced by a blending of two shades. Important mergers are blue with tan or black and black with gold or white.

And if you really want your gift package to shape up to perfection, include a knit shirt with unusual placket treatments, contrasting times, open V-necks and mitered collars.

Do-It-Yourself Bookcase Converts Into 'Fireplace, for Christmas Eve

Need a fireplace on which to hang stockings Christmas Eve?

It's simple. Build yourself a bookcase. It doesn't make any difference whether the bookcase is built into the wall or free-standing or what the size is. The key is to make the shelf or shelves removable for converting into a simulated fireplace, according to the Western Pine Association.

Incorporate the bookcase-fireplace idea into a paneling or wainscoting project or add it where the walls are already paneled.

One homeowner who felt the lack of a fireplace very Christmas decided to install wainscoting in a room. He gave a custom look and utility to the job by constructing a bookcase as a part of the wainscoting at an inconveninet abutment in the room.

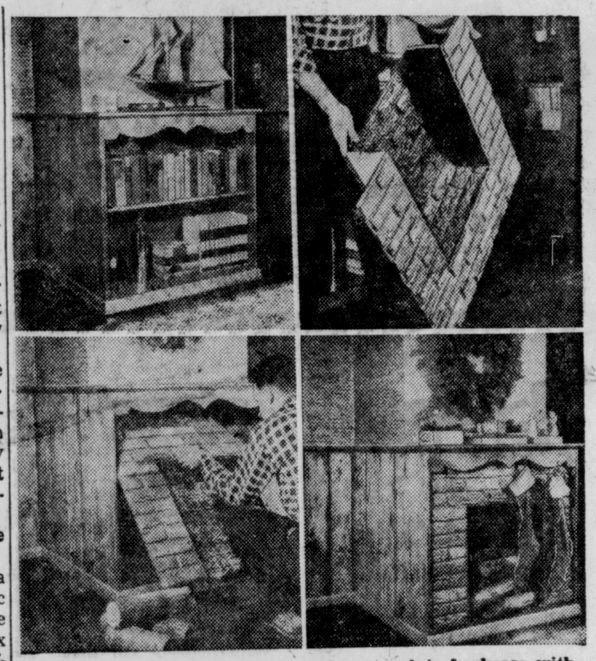
With Christmas approaching, he worked out his fireplace plan.

Construction materials for a fireplace insert include plastic brick facing, a wood box of the appropriate size for the firebox of the fireplace, and some half-inch thick lumber for the frame.

Dimensions depend upon the size of the bookcase. But it's a good idea to figure out first the size of the plastic brick and to construct the frame so that the bricks will not have a chopped up appearance.

In this case, the frame around the firebox was made the width of one full brick and the space above equal to four layers of bricks. Strips of one by two-inch lumber reinforced the corners where the wood facing joined the box. To fasten plastic brick onto the wood frame, a tacking stapler was used. But glue or nails are suitable.

No matter what color of plastic brick is used, it's a good idea to paint the back of the indented firebox a sooty black.



INGENIOUS Dad turns awkward corner into bookcase with wainscoting of western pine paneling. But more important to tykes, he uses plastic brick and wood frame to make fireplace insert. At Christmas he removes books and shelf, inserts fireplace unit and tacks up stockings.

Sky Is Limit in Christmas Toys

Educational Games Are High on List

America's 1958 toylands are geared to spark juvenile interest in science from toddlers on up.

Santa's billion-dollar pack will carry a record number of play kits slanted to instruct virtually every type of educational basic, according to the Toy Guidance Council.

Ready for gift-giving is a complete roundup of U.S. Army and Navy equipment for guided missile launghinc. It ranges from kits for rocket building to miniatures of specially constructed trucks which transport the missiles at Cape Canaveral and working launching platforms. Some toy rocket ships anticipate the future with full-scale crews.

Concern over outer space is reflected in more toys aimed at sic astronomy. There is also a basic astronomy. There is also a sile launching. It ranges from kits on entomology, atomic energy, chemistry, minerology, electronics and electricity.

Reflecting industry's interest in recruiting women scientists is a new lab technician's kit for girls.

Even electric train sets are recruited to rocket work with special launching platform cars. Newest addition to realistic rolling stock is a car designed for disposing of atomic energy wastes.

It's a year of specialization in the automotive sector of toyland. In Toy Guidance Council's selection of prestige toys area sportsman's convertible which pulls a trailer-mounted speedboat a new model cattle transport, a pick-up truck, a tilt-top trailer, a cat-loading power tractor and a whole garage full of road-building equipment.

Toyland's music will tootle in top volume. There's a roll harmonica which plays sharps and flats over two chromatic octaves with full-bodies organ tone. A piano accordion with a piano keyboard for the right hand and bass notes and chords for the left. New for the toddler is a pull - a - tune phone on wheels.

Then there is the wild West-smoking rifles (which actually snoot nothing but are strong on sound effects), midget pistols, fire bolt guns and authentic models of Colts. The old, ranch - style box phone the stage coach, the cattle corral and ranch-style buildings have many new playroom versions.

And on the kitchen range, home-making play continues to evoke strong interest. New model washin machines offer drying action, too, just like Mother's. Matched kitchen equipment in pastels tunes in with high style adults trends for home decorations.

Housing developments in suburban areas have inspired vrieda building kits. New girder-panel building kits are slanted to construction of realistic highway bridges as well as skyscrapers.

And for those on the go there is roller skate wheel that makes it practical for the beginner to practice indoors as well as out.

What Goes Up Must Come Down

Christmas Clean-Up Is Mom's Job

Christmas clean-up is generally a do-it-yourself job for Mother. Pop and the youngsters, eager to help trim the tree and windows, anxious to supervise the turkey-cooking, disappear fast when it comes time to put the house back in shape.

Here are some tips to help with a solo stint. Start by dismantling the tree. Wind lights, as you remove them, around a sturdy piece of cardboard to prevent tangling. Then wrap in tissue paper so that bulbs don't hit against each other and break.

Wrap each decoration carefully in facial tissue. This not only protects them against breakage but against luster-dimming dust as well.

Now swathe tree, wreaths and all Christmas greens in a laundry-bound sheet and let Dad carry the whole bundle outside.

Decorated windows may have looked festive but they're no fun to clean. To get rid of decals, wet them, gently pull them off and then sponge over the gummy residue with a solution of three tablespoons of sal soda per quart of water.

Where soap, which contains a certain amount of fat, was used for decor, the sal soda's alkaline properties emulsify it. If the soap was applied modestly, a sal soda solution will do, but if youngsters gave it their all and put it on in good solid layers, use the sal soda concentrated, dry, with brush.

The push-button snow is nearly always squirted on with a heavy hand, so slice off the worst of it with a knife or single-edge razor blade and then go over the area with a wet brush and dry sal soda.

Danish Cake Simple Dish For Holidays

Try a simple cake called "abelkage," a rich and festive creation served in Danish homes as the finishing touch to Christmas dinner.

To prepare abelkage or Danish apple cake simmer in a sauce pan two pounds of cored, peeled and sliced apples, with one teaspoon vanilla extract and two cups sugar. Cook until tender. Then brown two cups butter, three cups bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon and one cup sugar.

Line baking dish with melted butter and a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of cooked apples, then spread on a layer of cold currant jelly. Continue this process with a layerq of apples, and a last layer of bread crumbs. Dot with butter and bake in the oven until golden brown. Cool and serve with whipped cream.

Santa's Pack Loaded With Electronic Toys

Santa's pack promises to be loaded with more than 50 million dollars worth of electronic toys this year. Little more than 10 years ago, such toys were non-existent.

Such consumer acceptance was inevitable, according to Morton Gottlieb, president of Bell Products in St. Louis, Mo. a producer of electronic toys.

Space travel atomic energy, cosmic rays, intercontinental missiles were considered more properly in the realm of science fiction or comic strips a decade ago.

Now, since this space era has proven to be a near reality, children has gravitated toward the functional, non-mechanical type toy Children still demand toys with play value but they also want toys which give them a chance to emulate adult life.

One of the staple itmes in the electronic toy field is the Bel-Com intercommunication unit. The set has a genuine RCA loud speaker and comes in pastel shades which have proven to be the most popular in a color motif survey. Making a toy communication set as realistic and functional as possible retains a child's interest, this compan feels.

Another adult item, re-created for the youngsters of the house, is the "Hit Parade" transitor radio. Weighting only three ounces this battery operated radio can be carried in a youngster's trouser pocket Every local station can be received and heard on the special hi-fi earphone.

SIMPLE, EFFECTIVE

A fat candle makes an ideal simple decoration for a small table. Tie it with a bow, surround it with greens. Then mount it on a large compote or old-fashioned cake stand and center it on the table.

Envelopes for mailing purposes did not come into general use until the middle of the 19th century, soon after the adoption of the adhesive postage stamp.

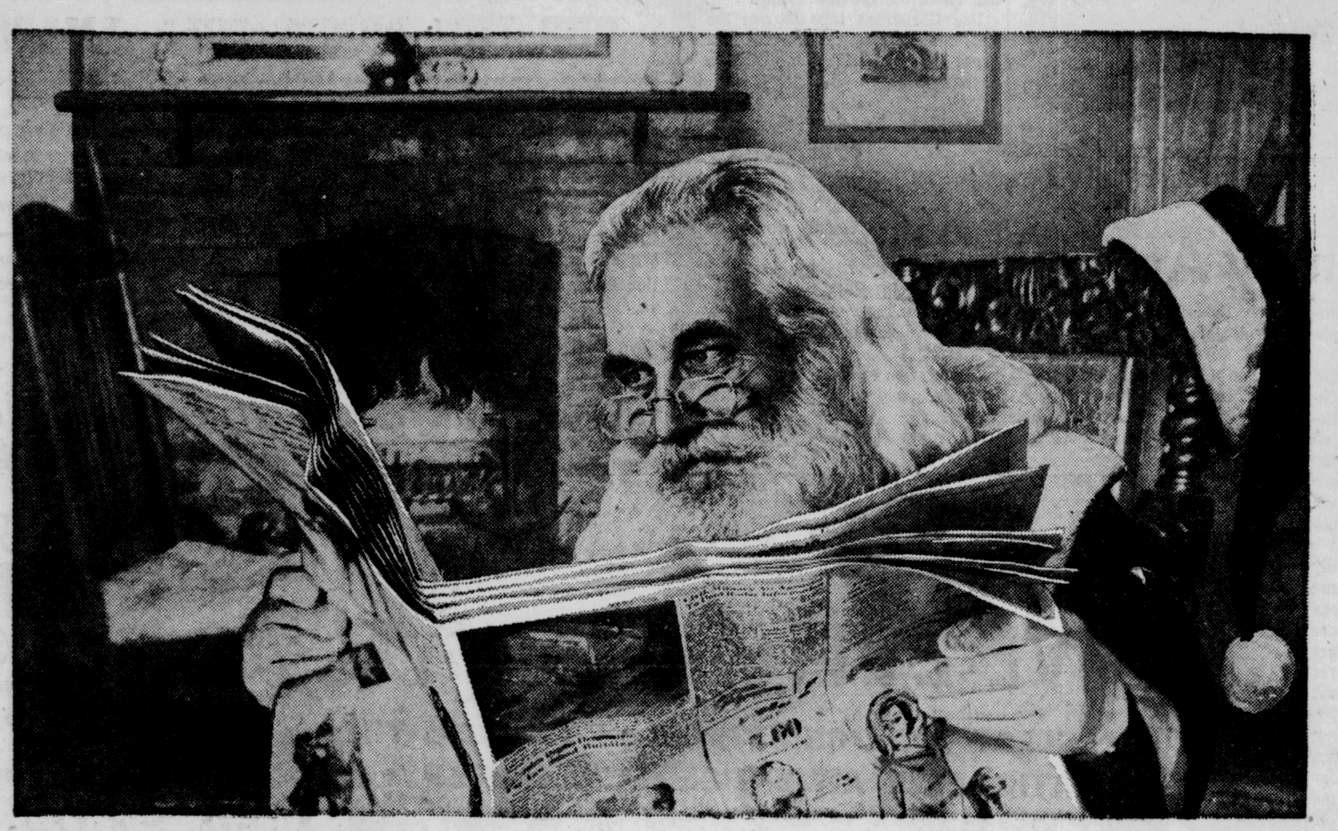
Where does Santa get his best ideas?



Where does Santa look first when he's on the prowl for bright ideas on Christmas gifting? You guessed it . . . in the pages of his newspaper! There (before he ever sets forth to shop) he can find a world of inspiration on WHAT to give to WHOM . . . and WHERE to get it!

His wife, Mrs. Claus, follows the same time-saving method in searching out the best ideas on what to give Santa, himself as well as to all the other members of her Christmas-expectant family. And (just like a woman) Mrs. Claus is especially interested in VALUES. That's why she appreciates the convenience of being able, in one front-to-back scanning of her paper, to find out who's got what and for HOW MUCH! She has learned that this cuts hours from her gift shopping time . . . and results in the very best selections for all!

Actually, you might say that "Christmas begins in your newspaper" . . . because that's where most merchants FIRST present their best gift suggestions . . . and where most people FIRST look for the best ways to make Christmas the happiest time for all!

Prefrozen Dishes Are Blessing to Hostess

Buffet Menues Can Be Prepared Early

The Christmas party hostess can wear holly in her hair and a calm unruffled expression if she home freezes the food in advance. With a little foresight and planning, the entrie buffet menu can be prepared ahead and deposited in the freezer.

To take the fuss and feathers out of feeding the guests, sit down with pencil and pad around three weeks before the party and plan the menu. Then prepare the various foods, package them in square, waxed-board home freezing containers an place in the freezer for the big evening.

One hearty hot dish goes a long way at a party and hits the spot on a cold December night. Practically all the stews and casseroles in a recipe file will freeze well. The exceptions are those that call for cooked egg whites and crisp salad greens. A frozen salad mold, hot rolls, fruit punch and cookies are suggestions to round out the buffet fare.

The results of home freezing are throughly satisfying to the palate when a few simple rules are followed. If a casseole is the star of the meal, prepare it as you would for immediate eating but, go a little light on the seasoning. Freezing has a tendency to intensify spices and condiments. Also., omit potatoes from the recipe since they usually become mushy and grainy in the freezer. Add them later when reheating the casserole. Before placing in home freezing containers, quick-cool all cooked foods to put an immediiate halt to the cooking process.

All the party baking can be done in advance,, too. Rolls, cookies, cakes and pies can be baked, cooled and packaged in approved home freezing materials to ensure protection of flavor in zero temperatures. Separate layers of rolls and cookies with sheets of waxed or foil paper to prevent sticking together. All baked goods should be cooled, too, before packaging for the freezer.

If you have not already lined up the menu for the big Christmas party, here is one to consider—holiday beef casserole, cranberry-nut salad, fruit punch, rolls and Christmas cookies.

Beef Casserole

Yield— 2 Quarts and 1 Pint (around 8 servings)

2 pounds beef, cubed, ½cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoon paprika, 3 tablespoons fat, 8 cups tomato juice, 1 bay leaf, 4 cups sliced carrots, 2 teaspoons onion powder, 2 teaspoons celery seed, 4 cups of peas

Roll beef cubes in mixture of flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Brown meat in deep skillet in which fat has melted. Pour in just enough tomato juice to cover meat and add bay leaf. Cover skillet and simmer for 2¼ hours. Remove bay leaf. Add carrots, remaining tomato juice, onion powder and celery seed. Blend. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Add peas, cover and simmer five more minutes or until vegetables are tender.

To put immediate halt to the cooking, lower skillet into bowl of ice cubes. When food is sufficiently cooled, down to around 90 degrees, spoon the food into two quart and one pint-sized containers. Snap down rigid plastic lids and place in freezer immediately.

HOLIDAY BUFFET is a lark for hostess with foresight. This one merely took fruit punch, rolls, frozen salad mold and a casserole dish from her freezer. To quick-cool cooked foods place skillet in bowl of ice cubes and let stand a few minutes. Spoon into home freezer containers, seal and freeze until party-time.

Skill, Strategy Are Important

Many Games Have Family Appeal

Familes with three and more children are spending a lot more time at home these days researchers for a games manufacturer report. As a result they want games slanted to a broad age group. And they are getting them.

Name That Tune, for example, can be played by 10. The first game to base play on a record, this big family game keys competition to recognition of excerpts from 16 famous melodies.

Another new game with broad age appeal is Who, Alfred Hitchcock's parlor version of a who-dun-it thriller. Action is based on a board reproducing a "haunted house." Every player has a chance to arrest the guilty party. Players move and carry out assignments found on instruction cards.

Another new idea for family competition is Pivot,, a game which balances chance, strategy and skill. Plastic playing pieces pivot on key numbers and players score by isolating single squares and by keeping as many pivot men in action as possible.

Parents who have found it hard to keep younger children quiet during motor trips like Car Travel, a spill-proof board game with playing pieces attached to the playing area by long cords. The board reproduces typical highway scenery; typical travel obstacles serve to spice the competitive fun.

Indoor versions of outdoor sports also take a prominent spot in Santa's pack this Christmas.

Expert winter baseball training that father and son will enjoy sharing is provided by Little League Baseball. Umpires show you how good your strategy was.

Pro hockey has a new parlor version that features relistic ice sport strategy as a focus for family f two full teams pay and score on a vibrating gridiron in a new electric football game. A bowling game with seven-inch pins is designed for both indoor and outdoor play.

Musical Instrument Adds to Yuletide Carols

Christmas of 50 years ago is coming back, complete with family caroling and music making that made it a truly festive occasion.

Great-grandfather's fiddling, great-grandmother's melodious piano and the wheezy squeeze of the concertina were all but replaced with music from the vacuum-tube radio in the '30's and '40's But with more than 8 million school-age youngsters playing musical instruments and 20 million adults joining in, Christmas once again is made warmer by the family musicale.

About half of these youngsters playing music have made the piano their instrument.

Thus the youngster can make the carols a little fuller, a little richer with mucical accompaniment.

Proper Toys Needed For Playtime Family

Little Miss Polly Pigtails is quite aware of satellites; but, nevertheless, her primary interest is in homemaking. She devotes the greaer portion of her playtime imitating her mother's daily tasks.

The toy manufacturers of the U.S.A. say more than 21 million toy cooking and housekeeping utensils will go to little girls this Christmas. These miniature appliances and utensils will account for approximately $63 million of the $1,575,000,000 toy industry's anticipated 1958 business.

Easy preparation of tasty, temting cakes pies and cookies has been simplified in the child's world just as it has been for adults by prepared mixes. Some baking sets are sold with small boxes of these mixes as an adjunct to cake tins, cookie sheets and utensils. Other sets of aluminum or aluminum and copper are exact copies of those sold in the adult housewares department.

Cooking sessions are naturally followed by a clean-up period.. To make this task fun there are sets of brightly colored plastic dish pans and drying racks as well as small boxes of soap powder and miniature dishcloths.

As sometimes happens the guests drop crumbs during the party whic hc allsforc englain party which calls for cleaning sets of pastel colored brooms, sweepers, mops and dustpans and make tidying up fun. The sweepers really work and so do the mops and brooms.

For barbecues or cookouts a dolly's hostess closet includes more than 20 different items.

In order to use all the housekeeping equipment, Polly needs furniture to serve her guests. Juvenile furniture has kept pace with the adult trend for simplicity, comfort and easy cleaning and storage.

Imagination Is Important

Gay Wrapping Fun

If you are planning to surprise someone with a pogo stick, golf clubs or a tall umbrella, put it under Santa's hat.

There is an easy-to-make Santa which serves as a perfect slim gift wrapper. All you need are some pieces of currugated paper on a base, some bright red Christmas paper, cotton swabs for a beard, some bits of paper for the eyes and nose, a length of cotton for the belt and cellophane tape.

Santa is made in two sections joined at the center, then covered with a cotton belt.

Roll a piece of currugated paper in a circle wide enough to enclose a gift, then fasten in place with cellophane tape. Cover the corrugated paper with bright red paper and fasten it with tape. This is the base. Each piece should be about 2 feet high.

To make the upper half, repeat this but make it narrower so it will fit inside the lower half.

Use Christmas tape to rim the hat. Then make a cone of red paper and pop it on top with a Christmas ball.

-:-

Unless they are quiz show winners, few youngsters have enough allowance money to buy elaborate gift wrappings in addition to Christmas presents. Yet they like to put an individual stamp on each present.

This they can do by wrapping their gifts in plain white paper, then planning unusual holiday motifs to decorate them.

All it takes is imagination, some cotton swabs as paint brushes, colored ink or water colors.

To make a reindeer, for example, first draw a deer, then dip a swab in black ink and trace the drawing with a broad stroke. Green ink dotted on the paper around the deer makes a lively polka dot pattern that will draw attention to the package when it is under a tree. Swabs are suggested for this project because they are easy for children.

Flexibility Is Keynote Among Designers

Sack Dresses Invade World of Dolls

The fashion world's hullabaloo over loose fitting styles versus figure--hugging silhouette has carried over ino the doll world.

Flexibility is the fashion keynote among doll designers. Prominent are teen-age dolls attired in the latest chemiserie with floating panels and shorter skirts, embellished with knee hobbles and narrow hemline ruffles.

But, like the couturiers of the grown-up world, doll stylists also are featuring a variety of figure-fitting costumes.

Proper accessories get major attention in every doll wardrobe, Toy Guidance Council notes. Long strings of varicolored beads,, for example, complement the sack-like chemise designs. Glitter pins and charm bracelets fill the fashionable doll's jewel box.

A well-dressed doll has tinted stockings, pumps in varying heights and long-ribbed cotton stockings co-star with her gillies and sneakers for sporting occaions.

Rooted hair of the smart 1958 doll provides a wide range of hair style potentials ranging from bangs and pony tails to Gibson girl pompadours. All Mother's good grooming aids are included in doll kits from wave set to toe-nail polish.

Even fur fashions get a featured spot in the doll parade. The development of long-piled fabrics as reasonable facsimiles of chinchilla, mink, seal and other precious furs has made an elegant "fur" wardrobe practical.

PIXIE MOTHERS this year will collect a few million more dolls for their nurseries. Surprise will be vinyl doll (left) with rooted short blond hair. Or, for those who like a man around the house there's Jeff, a teen-age brother of popular Ginny. Many dolls, such as this Toni doll in her knee-high chemise, take a hairset.

Gifts of Silver Are Worthwhile Presents for 'Special' Friends

"My mother has a trick when it comes to presents, especially for Christmas," a friend told me the other day. "She makes a beline for the silver department and lives there right through her list.

"The $5 to $15 presents she buys run the gamu from teaspoons to tomato sercers and from spreaders to letter openers. And no one is an exception. Friends and relatives, male and female, old and young."

The young woman who revealed her mother's secret has a great many friends and very little time, but likes to do things nicely. It wasn't surprising to have her add, "I find this trick of Mother's solves my problems, too. I can spend as little or as much as my checkbook allows, yet I know the presents I give are worthwhile and will be appreciated."

No one likes to give presents that are lovely but useless, or pretty but perishable, or right in all other ways, but sore thumbs in a decor they've never seen. Yet how many know the inexpensive but impressive silver trick as a timesaver and decision-maker.

One thing people have to do every day is eat. A family's social life with each other and with friends centers around the table and a mother knows the measure of her hospitality is a festive, well-served dinner. Sterling silver flatware accents a handsome table and makes good food taste better.

Yet few famlies have enough place setting pieces in this day of frequent entertaining, often impromptu and casual buffet. So extra, heavy-dutypieces are always welcome and can be bought to the number and price desired. For instance, three teaspoons or a knife and fork come to only about $15.

Teen-age girls dreaming of the future are enormously pleased and subtly flattered by additions to their growing slilver trousseau. Or—a gift certificate in a silver club will start a girl who has not already selected her pattern and encourage her in the silver-saving habit.

And the VIP's on your list—men naturally — will like any of these,, all under $15: cigarette box, match box, ash tray, table lighter, cigar cutter. There is a wide assortment of bar equipment, decanter labels, for instance.

Men and boys will take to cuff links, tie clip, magnifer, book mark, letter opener (in the family flatware pattern) and excutive 12-inch rule.

Santa's Pack to Have Odd Bulges

Household Appliances Are Popular

Santa's pack is goint to have some oddly shaped bulges from radios,, TV sets, hi-fi equipment and household appliances. These items are getting more popular each year as Christmas gifts.

Here, according to Montgomey Ferar of the industrial-design firm of Sunberg-Ferar, are some of the newest features to look for in these types of presents.

RADIOS — Cordless, portable transistor models are not only light, compact and sturdy, but newest models have their own plug-in stands to rest on. These automatically recharge the batteries whenever the set is not in use.

-:-

TELEVISION —New slimline sets with 110-degree picture tubes snuggle against the wall, resemble a framed portrait rather than a chest of drawers. For the first time are truly portable.

HI-FI — Latest stereophonic tape and record players put you right in the same room with the orchestra. Latest winkle is a cartridge - playing, stereophonic tape machine. It automatically reverses itself, offers all of the hi-fidelity advantages of a regular tape recorder with none of its inconvenience.

-:-

ELECTRIC APPLIANCES — Trend here is mated sets of table-cooking utensils, including frier, saucepan, griddle, chafing dish and deep-fat frier. Since they are used separately, these sets of appliances come with but a single cord and thermostatic control dial for economy and convenience. Intended for dining-room use rather than the kitchen, latest models have been designed to harmonize with a hostess' fine silver. These are square instead of round to provide maximum cooking area. Some of the newer friers also have glass tops.

MAJOR APPLIANCES— Newest-model electric ranges incorporate electric rotisseries, automatic basters and kabob bailers to put more fun and less work into cooking. You can prepare exotic dishes with comparatively little effort. "Blown cold" is the lates advance in refrigerators. It eliminates defrosting and provides exactly the right temperature for storing each different kind of food.

Fo the home that "has every thing," why not select one of the new under-the-counter automatic ice-cube makers? This clever device freezes 30 pounds of ice cubes at a time, shucks them into a storage container, ready for instant use.

Party Refreshments Should Be Kept Simple

The fun and excitement of getting the house ready for Christmas can be shared with family and friends in a tree trimming party. The tree itself provides the entertainment and guests can haggle good-naturedly about placement of ornaments.

Make refreshments simple and buffet style to let guests nibble as they decorate. Keep hot foods hot with an electric server and the tree-trimming snacks will be delectable from beginning to the end. Hot soup laced with nutmeg and cinnamon bark is cold-weather fare served with flat sesame seed bread broiled with lots of butter.

Oher snack suggestions are bite-sized hamburgers or tangy cheese dandwiches. Toasted slices of all-butter pound cake served with hot blueberry syrup and steaming mugs of Veinnese coffee (half whipped cream and half of coffee), make another festive treat.

HE'LL BE A CUT-UP

Dad expects his usual number of Christmas ties under the tree. Why not surprise him with his own silver carving set which he can brandish proudly when it comes time to carve the turkey?

MATCH SHIRT, COAT

When shopping for a wool sports shirt, it's wise to keep in mind the color of the sports coat. Solid color sports shirts look best with striped wool Shetland sports coats. Other sports coat patterns take to neat checked, striped or patterned shirts.

New Leathers Offered In Slippers

Whether in the glamour category or in styles for down-to-earth comfort, Chistmas slippes for the feminine set feature new, glove-soft leathers in a dazzling range of colors to match or blend with today's colorful at-home clothes.

Higher-riding silhouettes cover more of the foot. In styles for both women and teen-agers, much use is made of combinations in leather textures and colors. For example, silky soft brushed leathers are accented with overlayed strippings of shiny patent leather and smooth leathers are touched with detailings of finely textured grains in contrasting colors.

For evenings a home, the thong slipper and mule are very popular. Shown in such vivid hues as turquoise, coral, emerald green, burnished gold, these slippers are at best in the smooth, soft leathers that lend themselves to draping and crushing. Mules, most often perched on curved mid-heels, are detailed with scalloping along the edge of the vamp or high-riding tongue effects that give a slenderizing line to the foot.

The low-heeled slipper and the new scooped-in wedge styles reflect high fashion in leather textstyling. Vamps in most instances reach higher up on the instep, giving the foot a more covered-up look. The slim, tapered toe silhouette is emphasized to complement the easy lines of casual clothes.

Your Favorite Man Will Enjoy Shoes As Christmas Gift

Put Christmas at his feet this year and give your favorite man handsomely styled shoes in the elegant new lightweight leathers. Such a gift is bound to be a sure hit because eight out of ten men are short on shoes.

Heading shoe news is the shoe with the new slimly tapered and squared-off toe. Seen most often in leathers with a fine grain, it comes in many variations of the slip-on style or in two or three eyelet ties for both street and casual wear.

Any man would welcome a three-eyelet blucher in a highly polished smooth leather, detailed with the new inverted moc seams. This lighter-look seaming will be featured in a great many shoe styles.

Extra Turkey Provides Chance To Put Deep Freeze to Work

Thanks to a generous employer or a winning ticket, you may find yourself with an extra turkey this Christmas. Such a windfall could be the downfall of a varied diet limiting your menu to turkey left overs for weeks to come. Not so if you have a food freezer. Enjoy one bird now; freeze the other for Easter dinner.

Here is the way to do it, according to Jean Shaw, director of the Coldspot home service department at Sears Roebuck and Co.

If the turkey is already frozen, check the wrapping for rips and tears. If the wrapping is airtight, just tuck the turkey into the freezer. If not, rewrap.

Miss Shaw recommends packaging a turkey in a large polyethylene bag. Do not stuff the bird before freezing, she cautions. Tie wings and legs close to the body so wapping will fit snugly and place the turkey in the best fitting bag you can find. Immerse bag in warm water so it collapses and clings to the bird. This automatically forces out air and assures a snug fit. Now twist the bag opening tightly, double the twist over and secure with a rubber band or string. Giblets and livers should be wrapped separately in aluminum foil or freezer paper. Label each package to show contents, freezing date, and in the case of the whole turkey, weight. It may be stored for up to seven months.

Transfer the turkey from freezer to refrigerator a few days before you plan to use it. A 10 to 20-pound bird requires two to four days thawing time at refrigerator temperature. The turkey should be unwrapped until it is completely thawed. Then cook immediately to prevent spoilage.

Packages Fascinating In Eyes of Children

Don't be disappointed this Christmas if a younster is more interested in the outside wrappings than he is with the gifts inside. As most experienced parents have found, this happens all the time. So it's not a waste of time to put a little extra thought into special gift wraps for the younger ones.

With shelf paper and a supply of gift wrap tapes and construction paper, you'll be all set to transform the most ordinary package.

First cover boxes with the shelf paper and secure with transparent tape. Perhaps you would like to buy a "hobby horse" wrapping. It's designed for a small gift to go in a paper cup.The paper cup is made into a horse's head with red and gold tape. His nose is a red tree ornament fascovered with red shelf paper and taped to the cup. A fluffy magic bow at the other end makes a tail.

Three dimensional effects are especially appealing to children as they provide something to play with. A set of trains, for instance, cut from construction paper, is a good idea to decorate a long box. Tape the trains to small pieces of sponge and they'll bounce around when touched. A band of gift wrap tape along the bottom creates a "track.' Two sasheen ribbon bows tied to a pipe cleaner at the front are "smoke."

A paper bag turned into a doll's face makes a charming design for a little girl's gift. Stuff the bag with candy or tissue paper, then tape onto the gift box.

Animals cut from colored construction paper or from magazines make simple box decorations. Last year's Christmas cards also are wonderful source for these cut-outs.

Special Care Necessary During Christmas Season

Accidents Run High in December

STRIPPED OF tinsel, Christmas tree goes to final resting place—a spot in the yard. Pop and Junior sled white spruce to prepared hole, mulched to keep hole from freezing. They center earth-balled tree in place, fill around ball with good soil and water.

Many persons look upon Christmas as something other than a festive, fun-filled occasion. It has a different meaning to the thousands of persons injured in the home each year during the holiday.

December, according to the National Safety Council, has more accidental deaths than any other month. It tops all others in accidental deaths from motor vehicles, falls, fire burns, railroads and poison gases.

Much of the December danger in the home results from the hustle - bustle, the conviviality that goes with the occasion, and the very things that are supposed to make Christmas a special time: trimmings and trees.

"Though harmless in themselves, trimmings and trees, if used improperly or without caution, can turn the holdiay into a time of tragedy," the Council says.

Trimings and trees contribute to the main causes of home accidents at Christmas. These are falls and fires.

Falls take the lives of about 2,000 persons each December. The main causes of home falls at Christmas time are (1) leaving toys and boxes around for someone to trip over, (2) climbing too high to hang decorations, (3) using chairs or other objects as stepladders, and (4) slipping on icy walks and steps.

Safety men say to throw out boxes and wrappings just as soon as possible, leave the climbing to the young and agile, and use a stepladder—one that's in good condition — when climbing.

Fires, the other major causes of home accidents at Christmas kill more than 1,000 persons each December. The danger of fire can be reduced if the decorations that brighten homes are fireproof or fire-resistant and caution is taken with the dry trees.

Small 'Socks' Ideal Wraps For Presents

Today's Christmas stockings may not look like the ones that were "hung by the chimney with care" but as gaily decorated conversation pieces they're just as popular as ever.

Lisbeth Lee, home sewing consultant for Atlas Sewing Centers, says, "with a little imagination any mother can turn out creations that will be cherished from year to year and even handed down from her chidren to their chidren."

Here are some suggestions from Miss Lee:

Sew small individual stockings of everything from red velvet with an "ermine" (white bunny fur) cuff to red calico from the remnant counter.

Children like individual stockings best when they are embroidered with their names. You can embroider by tracing a design on a piece of tissue. Pin it to the cut-out-stocking and stich over the design and the pins.

Little stockings make charming gift wraps. A child's inexpensive gift for Dad, such as a handerchief or a pair of socks, takes on a new air when it is presented in a stocking of candy-striped denim, with a Christmas bell dangling from its toe. Or a dram of perfume is glamorized by tucking it, with plenty of tissue, into a miniature stocking of white lace lined with red satin.

Here are simple directions. Cut out two stocking shapes. Embroider or applique one of the shapes on the right side of the material. Pin two shapes together, wrong side out, stitch around edges and turn right side out. Pin the cuff to the inside of the top of the stocking. Stitch. Turn cuff over the top of stocking. Attach any bells, buttons or bows that belong on the cuff or toe of the stocking.

NEAT GIFT for wife or sister is Princess electric shaver. Only one shaving head to contend with. Meanwhile, she's readying a like surprise, a sportsman shaver (inset) with mirrored battery case. Also plugs into auto lighter.

First Learn Her Type, Then Choose Her Gift

Every man over six knows that no girl is exactly like any other girl. But, although there are approximately 57 million women in the United States above the age of 18, it is possible now to pinpoint more accurately what any given "she" would like for Christmas.

A "capsule guide to women" developed by King-Casey should be a big help to bewildered husbands, sons and beaus. It is based on research a consulting psychologist, in connection with designing wallets and other personal leather goods.

EXTREMELY ACTIVE TYPE —She's usually young, lives in the suburbs, stresses daytime activity and outdoor living. She's casual in her clothes and simple in her tastes.

HOT-HOUSE FLOWER — She is highly decorative and dresses to be seen. Far from being active, she is inclined to be a passive onlooker, a role she has chosen for herself. Loves "dress-up" occasions and her wardrobe is planned to attract admiring glances from the opposite sex.

THE COMPOSITE—She, too, can be decorative but she can also be an active participant in any occasion. In selecting designs and clothing she is apt to choose the "happy medium." Her choices of accessories are less showy.

Carrots Have Starring Roles In Christmas Season Dishes

The thought behind a gift is appreciated more than the actual item. And when someone takes the time to prepare a favorite fruit cake or marmalade recipe, Christmas takes on an added glow of warmth. These unusual recipes are good to include in an inexpensive, but decorative, fruit basket, as a gift for all ages.

Fresh Carrot Fruit Cake

Sift together 2 cups sifted cake flour, 1¼ cups sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons doulbe-acting baking powder. Add ½ cup shortening, ¾ cup dry mashed carrots (cooked), and 2 eggs. Mix only enough to dampen ingredients. Beat with an electric mixer or by hand at low speed for 2 minutes. Add 1 more egg and 2 tablespons fresh orange juice. Beat 2 minutes. Stir in 1½ cups glazed diced pineapple, 1 cup glazed diced red cherries, 2 cups white raisins, ¼ cup glazed lemon peel, ½ cup glazed orange peel, 1½ cups diced citron and 1 cup sliced blanched almonds. Turn into a paper-lined greased 9x3-inch tube cake pan. Bake 2½ hours or until one in a preheated slow oven (300 degrees:. Turn out onto wire rack to finish cooling. When cold, store in a tightly closed container. Flavor improves with age.

Fresh Carrot-Orange Marmalade

Place 1¾ cups diced fresh carrots in a saucepan with ½-inch boiling water. Cover and cook only until carrots are tender. Drain if necessary. Peel and thinly slice 2 large oranges and 1 large grapefuit. (Save orange peel.) Add orange and grapefruit to carrots. Remove inner white portion from orange rind and discard. Slice remaining orange rind as thin as possible. Stir into the mixture. Add the juice and rind of 1 lemon. Measure all fruit. Add 2-3 cup sugar and ½ cup water for each cup fruit. Cover. Let stand 12 hours. Boil 35 minutes or until liquid is clear and of medium thickness. Turn into hot sterilized jars and seal at once.

Yield: 4 jars, ½ pint each.

PERSONAL gift may be a fresh carrot fruit cake. Prepare early because flavor improves with age.

Holiday Gift of New Fixture Would Throw Light on Scene

Throwing some light on the holiday scene often take smore than a glittering string of Christmas tree baubles.

Even the most tastefully decorated Christmas tree isn't enough to overcome feelings of gloom and depression created by old-fashioned lighting fixtures. These cast flat light and create large shadowy areas.

"Well-balanced lighting is particularly necessary in the dining room," American Home Lighting Institute points out.

"As the family gathering place for the big Christmas meal, the dining room needs good lighting to create a happy atmosphere for the occasion."

And, unlike a Christmas tree, which is short-lived, a new lighting fixture will retain some of the atmosphere throughout the entire year.

Large formal gatherings, for example, call for the traditional crystal chandelier for needed light and adds its own charm and aparkle to the docor.

But for the more characteristic smaller-scale dining, bubble fixtures casting a soft diffused light throughout the room are appropriate. This is especially true when offset with a cornice, accenting draperies or a wall. Also good is a fixture that casts dramatic downlight on the table while subduing the rest of the room in a mellow half-light.

GRACIOUS candelabra table lamp keynotes Yuletide spirit and also a return to elegance in home furnishings. White-lacquered candlesticks rest in polished brass saucers. Shade is striped silk.

President William H. Taft signed the bill granting statehood to New Mexico in 1912, culminating a fight of more than 60 years.

Pineapples are almost seedless and are grown from slips, not seeds. The few seeds produced are used only in developing new varieties.

Young 'Bat Matersons' Have Wide Assortment of Weapons

SMILE, WHEN you say that, pardner. And this junior marshall moves to put his cross-over draw into action. He finds it most effective with a Colt .45 strapped to each leg. Replicas are a set with studded holsters.

Almost every day the Buffalo Bills and the Annie Oakleys of the house relive the battles of the Old West. No other era of our history holds as much fascination for them.

Children, emulating their western heroes, demand authentic replicas of the guns and holsters worn by such notables as Wild Bill Hickok, Wyatt Earp and Bat Masterson. Realistic size, weight and cap-firing power have become a must for the young gunslinger of the 20th century.

"Parents will spend some 55 million dollars on gun and holster sets this year," according to Joseph M. Breneman, president of Hubley Manufacturing Co. in Lancaster, Pa. The firm is reportedly the world's largest manufacturer of die-cast cap pisols.

"Nearly 65 per cent of the holsters and 50 per cent of the cap pistols will be purchased during the Christmas season," he said.

To make the legendary heroes more a part of today's living, there is an authentic replica of the Colt .45 known as the gun that tamed the West.

This realistic cap-firing pistol has a gold finish revolving cylinder, six two-piece cap cartridges and a satin finish bone handle. after completing a round of firing, the youngster must reload the cartidges, just as they did in 1860. The special construction of this pistol allows the smoke to be released from the barrel, adding to the realism.

Reports from Santa's helpers, the toy makers, indicate that a record number of gun and holster sets will be delivered this Christmas.

'Personality' in Decor Gives Distinctive Air

Home decorations with personality give guests something to talk about and the house a distinctive air. But a key to effective decorating, even with so many ornaments to use at Christmas, is not to overdo it.

All it takes for individual decorations is a way with a sewing machine, and a little time. Some suggested items to sew this season are appliques, family-sized stockings, mobiles, a giant Santa or a wall hanging for cards.

Martha Blair, director of the Pfaff Sewing Institute, suggests that if you aren't an artist, buy applique patterns of Santa, reindeer, snowmen and angels. Cut the figure desired from felt or pellon scraps and decorate them with embroidery. Then zigzag stich or paste them to living room draperies or lamp shades.

A different Santa is made from a giant five-pointed star cut from one yard of red felt. Two points will be Santa's arms, two his legs, and the other his head.

Sew black bits to points for boots and gloves, and a black strip across SANTA'S middle for a belt. Satin--stitch eyes, nose and mouth on Santa's head and paste or sew a cotton ball to his hat. Fashion a beard for his face and hang him above a fireplace or on a wall in a child's room.

Holiday Nerves Can Be Calmed By Relaxation

The holiday flurry of shopping, going to parties and staying up late addressing cards and wrapping presents can wind nerves up tight.

To help swing through this festive season with ease and graciousness learn to relax.

You must be able to recognize signs of tensions before you can do anything about them. Clues may be foot-tapping, leg-swinging and other quick jerky movements, gritting your teeth or holding things in an iron grip.

Your head, hands, arms, abdomen shoulders and legs have muscle groups that are high-tension spots. Tighten, then relax each muscle group in turn to find out if you're tense.

Simple relaxation measures can help you untie knotted nerves. Going limp, like a rag-doll, is perhaps the easiest way to lessen strain.

Try flopping your hands at the wrist, a trick used by many pianists to relax before playing. Stretching hard, yawning wide and waggling your jaw, and alternating your walking pace between fast and slow help relax tensions. Relax consciously and you'll continue to do so without thinking about it.

Even the way you breathe can be a tip-off about how tense you are. Many unrelaxed people have rapid, shallow breathing — they actually breathe too much.

At holdiay time, traffic jams and long lines in crowded stores may make you cross and tense, even though you can't do anything about them. If you find yourself in this kind of situation, the best thing to do is relax and stretch.

Of course, some signs of tension may be symptoms of physical illness. Have your family doctor give you a check-up. Meanwhile, learn to relax by developing and practicing less tense living habits.

Modern Washer Gives Lavish Care to Most Fragile Clothes

Lovely lingerie will be given more lavishly than ever this Christmas. And a girl needn't worry about their care as much as before.

Thanks to modern home laundry appliances, these fragile and costly garments—primarily of nylon and dacron—now stay lovelier longer, with a minimum of care and fussing.

TAHITIAN-style steak knife and carving sets ideal for future homemaker. Follow Oriental decor trend.

Tests show an automatic washer setting for cold water and reduced agitation will pamper the filmist gift nightie or slip. Even lacy foundations and "contour" bras, purchased to complement holiday fashions, cling to their elasticity and snowy whiteness through cold water care, according to the Maytag product testing laboratory.

This method launders dainty garments more efficiently than the customary hand-washing method it was found. And, automatic rinsing removes loosened soil and detergent more thoroughly.

The tests proved that hot water is the outstanding enemy of heat-sensitive snythetic fibers and elastics. Keep this in mind when hand-laundering, too.

Hot dry settings also weaken and discolor elastics, which should be dryer-dried only if a no-heat airfluff cycle is provided. Use a wash 'n wear dryer cycle for lingerie that does not contain elastic threads.

Another important factor to remember is the dye-scavenging habits of white nylons. These always should be laundered by themselves because they will pick up minute particles of color even from white cottons previously washed with colorfast colored articles.

Seasonal Recordings Offer Wide Variety

With the advent of high-fidelity and the LP record, Christmas music around the fireside, with a few friends to join the family group, is now a cherished custom.

A particularly interesting addition to Christmas music is "Christmas With Grandma Moses," which should have an especially wide appeal to lovers of the traditional.

The famous Nativity stage show at Radio City is on record and titled, 'Christmas Holidays at Radio City Music Hall."

Many of the old favorites without which music for Christmas would be incomplete are back. Among these are "Amahl and the Night Visitors," by Gian-Carlo Menotti, with the original cast; the Robert Shaw Chorale's "Christmas Hymns and Carols" in two volumes; Perry Como's delightful, "Around the Christmas Tree" and several versions of "White Christmas."

Exotic Foods Surprise Gift For Holidays

If at Christmas a present bites, bite back.

This is the wise advice of knowing bourmets—those educated eaters who drool at the thought of chocolate grasshoppers, fried bumble bees and such.

Thus Christmas shoppers in search of unusual gifts for those who "have everything" have a possible solution. Easing their gift worries is Canvocation. Canvocation. it appears, is a collection of exotic food items which come in cans.

And prompting a list of suggested food gifts is Mrs. Albina Rowland of the Can Manufacturers Institute. Her suggestions prove to be a mouthful.

Mrs. Rowland advises, "At Christmas time popular bachelors may receve innumerable ties, women may receive dozens of stockings and perfumes—but hardly anyone will be given several elaborately gift-wrapped cans of larks stuffed with creamed and truffled goose livers."

And Mrs. Rowland is out to remedy this sad situation.

Interest in foreign cooking, preparation and serving of unusual foods is growing rapidly in the United States. As a result domestic as well as foreign canners pack more than a hundred gourmet itesm.

As gifts for the conservative gourmet, Mrs. Rowland suggests the standard caviar, pate de fois gras, smoked baby clams. However, she states that fried bumble bees and grasshoppers are rather commonly served today as appetizers or cocktail hors D'oeuvers.

For friends with luxury food tastes there are such items as rock cornish hens, Bombay or mallard duck or ptarmigan. Such unusual vegetables as stuffed vine leaves, hearts of palm salad and fiddleheads would combine to make a distinguished gift package. And those who like sea-food will enjoy a holiday box of canned snails, mussels, octopus and smoked frogs legs.

Or, present a friend with a full menu, accompanied by the various cans of foods which compose it and a jewelled-encrusted can opener.

Such a menu might include: mambo punch and hula highballs as before dinner cocktails (with these could be served such palatable hord'oeuvres as strip cheezers and rooster combs with kidneys). Alligator soup should be a warming and palatable experience. Moving on the entree or main course, how about Scottish hassis served with mus-greens and potato sticks?

Modern Devices Aid In Giving Mom Time

Every minute counts during the pre-Christmas rush and the busy homemaker can be thankful for the modern devices that help her get through it all in one piece. Among them are her automatic washer and dryer that take over the laundry job, the telephone for remote-control shopping, efficient cleaning tools,, a garbage disposal to shorten steps.

There's one task that can't be skipped or skimped, however, and that's cooking meals for the famlly day in and day out. Fortunately there's a device to help you out with that, too, the automatic oven timer on your electric range. This very efficient helper can free you for an afternoon of shopping or other activities.

Simply, an automatic oven timer enables you to bake or roast accurately when you are not there. Once you have set it, before leaving the kitchen or leaving the house, it will turn the oven on at the proper time, cook or roast at a preselected temperature and turn the oven off again when the cooking time has passed. Timers vary in their method of operation so use according to instruction and pick up extra hours during busy days.

Picking Proper Tree Is Important Chore

Like picking a Christmas tie, selecting a bargain Yuletide tree can hit a discordant note.

Especially for a family who plans to plant it after the gift-wrapping scramble ends.

A living Christmas tree may either grace or disgrace the home landscaping for a long time, according to M. W. Staples.

As field supervisor of the Davey Tree Expert Co., he points out the double-duty holiday tree should be a desirable ornamental kind — not a fast-growing monster that soon will dwarf the house.

Even the better evergreens need considerable living space. Pick a suitable planting site and perhaps even prejare it in advance, he advises. The six-to-eight-foot Christmas tree will grow to be a major specimen.

In searching for a living tree avoid the fly-by-night dealer. Hunt out the legitimate merchant or nurseryman who offers freshly dug, honestly balled and protected trees. And avoid trees with earth balls that are thoroughly frozen. These make survival difficult.

Squanto, Thanksgiving's Forgotten Hero

He Taught Pilgrims How to Plant

By FRANKIE SHARP

He was the Indian Saint of Plymouth and Governor Bradford called him "a special instrument sent by God for their good beyond expectation"—but few people would recognize his name today.

Historians say that without him, there would have been no first Thanksgiving Day 337 years ago — for the Pilgrims would have had no crops to give thanks for.

But there are no towns named for him, no highways or bridges—only a lonely point on the Massachusetts coast and a dreary little side street in Plymouth.

He is the forgotten man of Thanksgiving.

HE WAS TISQUANTUM, a Patuxet Indian whom the Pilgrims called Squanto.

Squanto was captured in 1605 by an English exploring party led by Capt. George Weymouth who wanted a souvenir of his trip to the New World.

The young Indian was taken back to England for exhibition as a curiosity. He was apparently well treated — although there is very little information on these years — and he was sent back to America in 1614 with Capt. John Smith.

Freedom was short.

One of Smith's ships was instructed to tarry in what is now Plymouth Harbor and trade with the Indians for fish and furs. When ready to depart, the captain lured some Indians on board, threw them in the hold and later sold them as slaves in Spain.

SQUANTO WAS ONE of the unfortunates. Luckily for him, he was bought by a kindly group of friars who treated him well and converted him to Christianity.

After several years, he escaped and made his way to England where kind-hearted men sent him back to America with Capt. Thomas Derner. He landed at Plymouth about six months before the Pilgrims. With two round trips to England behind him, he undoubtedly was the most traveled Indian in New England.

But homecoming this time was sad. Disease — probably measles or smallpox — had killed Squanto's entire family and tribe. He stayed with the neighboring Wampanoag tribe, also much weakened by disease. Several months after the Pilrims landed, Squanto attached himself to the European colony.

Squanto's personal tragedy was life-saving good fortune for the Pilgrims.

IF THE LITTLE BAND of Englishmen had landed in territory held by a strong tribe of Indians, they would probably have been killed or driven off immediately. But they happened upon the empty Patuxet lands. Then came Squanto, Governor Bradford's "special instrument sent by God" to show the Pilgrims how to plant the seed corn they had found hidden by a tribe on Cape Cod where they stopped before coming to Plymouth.

The Patuxet lands were old and not too fertile, but Squanto showed the Pilgrims how to plant the corn in properly spaced hillocks with three herrings in each to fertilize the plants.

Squanto showed his new friends how to hunt and fish in the strange woods, what crops were good to eat and how they could be grown and he acted as a tireless interpreter between the Pilgrims and the neighboring Indians.

SQUANTO WAS the interpreter who negotiated the treaty with Massasoit — an important chief in the Massachusetts area. That treaty gave the Pilgrims peace and the opportunity to build their first little settlement into a thriving town. He died of an "Indian fever" about two years after the Pilgrim's arrived.

Squanto's title of the Indian Saint of Plymouth was earned — not given. Those who could stick to the most stern regulations of the hard Pilgrim life were called Saints. Those families who did not quite measure up were known as Strangers.

Squanto, the one-time slave and captive, lived up to the most rigid rules . . . and earned his title of Saint.

Hot Buttered Rum Traditional Treat for Yultide Festivities

Traditional Yuletide treats like hot buttered rum are as popular today as they were 200 years ago.

HOT BUTTERED RUM

Scald a mug or cup and mix two ounces of Puerto Rican rum with a teaspoon of sugar. Add a pinch of grated nutmeg and a pinch of cinnamon or a stick of cinnamon and fill with boiling water (or apple juice or cider). Drop in a pat of butter and serve hot.

You can have a "bell ringer" of a Christmas dinner simply by serving it "au champagne," says famous gourmet, James A. Beard. French Champagne can be served throughout any meal, he points out. and it goes just as well with the plum pudding as with the turkey.

Best cooling system is to place it in a bucket half ful of water, with floating ice, half an hour before serving. Wipe the bottle off. Remove the wire guard holding in the cork, hold the cork and twist the bottle so as to ease the cork out without a big "pop." Popping is great fun, but don't forget it means you will lose a good deal of the precious wine as it froths out of the bottle neck. So keep the explosion down to a minumum.

Pour liquid slowly, filling glasses only half way. A bottle serves about eight drinks. Hold the glass by its stem so as not to warm the wine with your hand. Sniff the bouquet and sip it slowly.

Parties Less 'Work' If Foresight Is Used

Having a party is always fun. But think how much more fun it would be if you could leave with the last guest and didn't have to worry about cleaning up.

Housewives who consider preventive clean-up measures before the big event can be guests at their own affairs, more or less. Servicemaster, a national home care organization, tells how this is done.

First, have a spotting kit handy so if food gets spilled on a chair or upholstered couch you can quickly remove the stain before it has a chance to set.

A compact, handy kit contains different kinds of cleaning solutions that will remove more than 50 different types of spots from any type fiber. It also has a dial-a-spot wheel to tell the right treatment for a stain.

HOLIDAY hostess keeps first aid kit with special solutions handy to wipe away spots and possible stains.

SANTA sees that neat Missy can primp with her own soft nylon brush and comb set.

DIZZY zoo game, Monkey's Wild, finds players trying to return 55 runaway animals to their cages.

SHOES rest in style. Portable unit, an English import by Countess Mara, goes in closet or sits in bedroom.

Edible Holiday Gifts Always Big Favorites

A gift from your kitchen at Christmas time is more than welcomed by friends and relatives. A different way to give a gift from your kitchen is in a picnic outing kit filled to the Punch goes in the vacuum bottles, festive cookies in the sandwich box.

Be sure to select cookies that will keep well for several days like this one prtpared by Aladdin home economists.

Almond Meringue Sandwiches

3 egg whites, room temperature, 1 cup sugar, sifted, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg whites with hand or electric mixer in a 2-quart mixing bowl until stiff enough to form pointed peaks. Add sugar in six portions and best until blended in after each addition. Beat in vinegar and vanilla until meringue forms pointed peaks.

Prepare cookie sheet by placing plain brown paper on sheet. Pour meringue mixture into pastry bag fitted wth plain round-hole tube. Press out onto sheet in long strips the size of lady-fingers. (About 2½ or 3 inches long.) Drop slivered almonds on the top of each cookie.

Bake in slow (250-degree) oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until a pale cream color.

'Wandering Waistlines' Make Belt Good Gift

Belts are still on the go and the gal who follows fashion will be wearing them low at the hipline, casionally 'round the waist where they used to go all the time.

This wandering waistline means, of course, that new belt fashions are in order, a gift idea to note for Christmas shopping.

Since softness of silhouette is high up in Empire style and ac- desired, the chemise and Empire belts are most effective in the new soft and supple leathers. For instance, there are shoestring belts in ultrasoft leather. These can be combined and tied loosely around the top of the hiplines. Or there are sash belts in silky soft suede with fringed ends that are loosely looped at the hipline or tied more tightly at the normal waistline. These come in the new leather colors that range from the hot hues to burnished tones and dark colors.

In many instances, leather is combined with metal in golden or silver color in the form of links, medallions and so forth.

Dog's Present Can Be Useful

Fido Appreciates Christmas Gift

"Love me, love my dog" is a particularly good thought for Christmas.

For making a bigger hit than ever with families on a Christmas list who have dogs, include a gift for each dog.

Richard W. Moyer, education director of Sergeant's Dog Care Cener of Richmond, Va., says, "The dog may not understand the significance of the act, but it may enjoy the fun and laughter over the unwrapping of the present. Certainly the family will appreciate the thought."

In addition, the present for the dog can be something which its owner would find useful. Mr. Moyer says a suitable gift might include a cake of flea soap or an instant foam lather in an aerosol can for easy grooming and cleaning without water.

Other ppractical gift suggestions are food or water dishes—possibly decorated with the name of the dog—and collars and leads in colors that either match or contrast with the dog's coat. More expensive items would include a raincoat, blanket, sweater, dog carrier, bed and mattress.

Although he is better known as a backwoodsman and defender of the fort at Alamo, Davy Crockett was a member of Congress for six years.

ROUND OF gift-giving doesn't stop with people. Families with pets will appreciate gifts for their favorite animal. Santa's helpers say this dog is getting an aerosol can of easy groom cleaner.

It's Difficult to Purchase Clothing for Children

Millions of dollars will be spent this Christmas season in buying clothes for youngsters.

Some will make excellent gifts and will give the youngsters many months of wear but some will never be worn.

Why is this true?

"Despite the fact that clothes are probably the most useful gifts for children many people don't know how to buy them," according to George J. Rosenberg,, president of Wonderalls of Minneapolis manufacturers of children's clothes.

Most people—particulary those who don't have children—have more trouble buying clothes for small fry than any other gift," Rosenberg explained.

He suggests a child's garment should be selected for eye appeal as well as for its practicability.

"And it has to appeal, of course, to both the parents and the child who receives it," he said.

"In giving a gift you should try to overlook your own personal tastes or desires and make the selection from the recipient's point of view.

"Know the age and size of the child so the gift will fit immediately or at some early future date.

"One of the evls we have found in giving apparel for gifts for children is that the giver has a tendency to select something much too large that has to be put away. By the time the child is ready to wear it the gift is out of style or is forgotten."

Elaborate clothing gifts for children usually are impractical.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

PROBLEM foyer can be handy spot to display gifts and decorations. Shallow cabinet and matching upper shelf unit by Baumritter make hard-to-furnish area useful. Brass hardware, cane-covered doors complement spice brown finish.

Gloves Are Luxurious Gifts for Your Wife

It s all very well to give a wife something she needed anyway and was planning to buy. That's very good economy. But in her heart of hearts at Christmas she wants to be surprised with a luxury, something she is tempted by all year long.

To make it easy for men sold on the iea, the Leather Glove Producers of France offer some hints to bear in mind at the glove counter because gloves are accessories that add fillip to all her costumes.

You must know your wife's glove size. If you can't find it marked in an old glove, get another member of the family to worm it out of her if necessary. The French glace kids, suedes and doeskins are at their best when they fit perfectly.

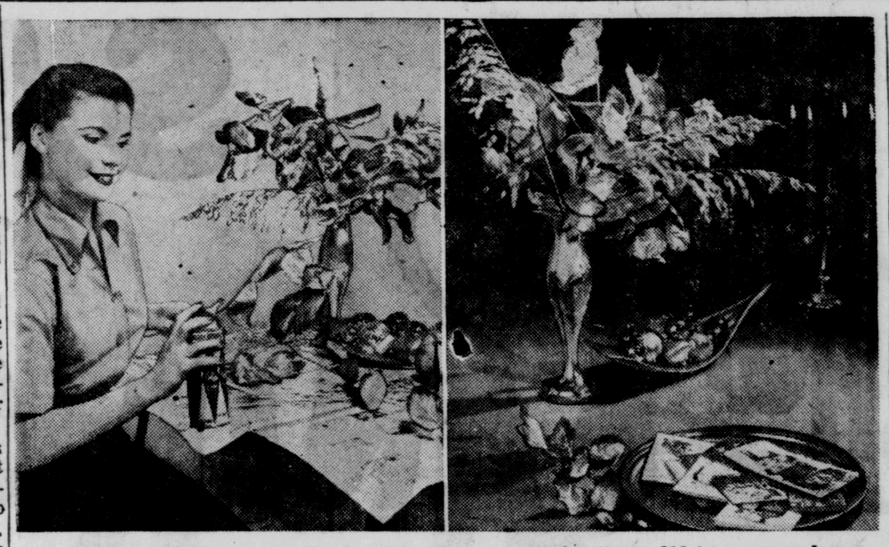
For a woman with a skimpy glove wardrobe buy a pair that will give her plenty of mileage. Generally agreed to be the most useful in an eight-button (midforearm length) suede in a pale beige. This will look well at all hours of the day and evening and is smart with many sleeve lenghts, worn crushed down or smoothed up over the arm.

If she needs a formal glove, get her a pair of white glace kid in a length reaching to the elbow or beyond.

A wardrobe of shorties (gloves that stop at the wrist) is another nice choice, in glace kid with buttons at the wrist. A black, a white and a pale beige will see her smartly through the day and evening for most occasions and most fashions.

A few words about styling: If she has a good-sized glove wardrobe, be tempted by the decorated fancy gloves. If her glove wardrobe is scanty, select absolutely plain styles because they will look well with more of her clothes.

DESK accessories keynote favorite sport with trophy pipe stand. Set in leather shades to blend with room includes scissors and letter knife, desk pad.



GLITTERING HOLIDAY decorations come from unused home items. Old trays, vases, leaves and branches make elegant touches when sprayed with silver and gold chrome enamels. Light dash of metallic colors on synthetic snow, also, creates a rich twinkle. When spraying, protect work area with newspapers.

Spray Enamels Add Coloring for Season

Light up your house around the holiday season with gold and silver this year. These two colors give a majestic look to decorations in keeping with the dignity and happiness of Christmas. They also can be used to sparkle the synthetic snow sprayed on Christmas trees, holly and other seasonal trappings.

The elegant touch to Christmas comes easily. Simply spray snow in pink, blue or white, or use gold and silver (chrome) spray enamel in combnation on items or lightly sprinkled over the snow.

There are several things you can do in a jiffy and easily because the spray cans are light and easy to manipulate.

You might spray an old metal tray with gold and put your Christmas cards on it. The gilded tray is a pleasant background for the colorful cards.

Or the intriguing shapes of lemon leaves and other greens may be sprayed silver or gold. For an antique effect, spray very lightly so the green shows through in places, suggests Margaret Hutchison, Martin-Senour color stylist.

Then arrange branches in a vase. A pretty centerpiece for the Christmas feast is a round bowl sprayed and filled with gold, silver, and colored Christmas balls. This is also attractive on the mantel or on your buffet.

When doing decorating projects, first have a good place to spray, perhaps the floor in a corner. Put newspapers on the walls, extending about five feet to either side, if you are spraying larger items.

Most Successful Toy Buying Is Result of Thoughtfulness

Resist that impulse to buy hastily when choosing toys for children on a Christmas list Also, tackle selection of playthings at a leisurely pace well ahead of the rush.

This advice to assistant Santas comes from Dr. Alma Williams Davis. She is a professor of elementary education and a member on the Toy Guidance Council advisory committee.

"The basic rule of successful toy buying is to be thoughtful," says Dr. Davis.

"Consider each child as an individual whose Christmas 1958 stage of development has very special play need. Toys chosen with his age and interests in mind will be an investment in education as well as a source of immediate fun."

Relatives and friends out of personal touch with youngsters on their gift lists should take time for a little elementary sleuthing, she says.

"First check up on ages," Dr. Davis advises. "Be realistic about the years that have passed since that last snapshot showing Junior in romper in a playpen. Just a letter or a phone call will fill you in on his play interests and capabilities right now. Children's mental and physical growth is rapid, showing differences even from month to month. Many stores have lists of types of toys which appeal to children at different age levels, manufacturers' labels, tags and containers give helpful information as to the purpose of each toy and its age appeal."

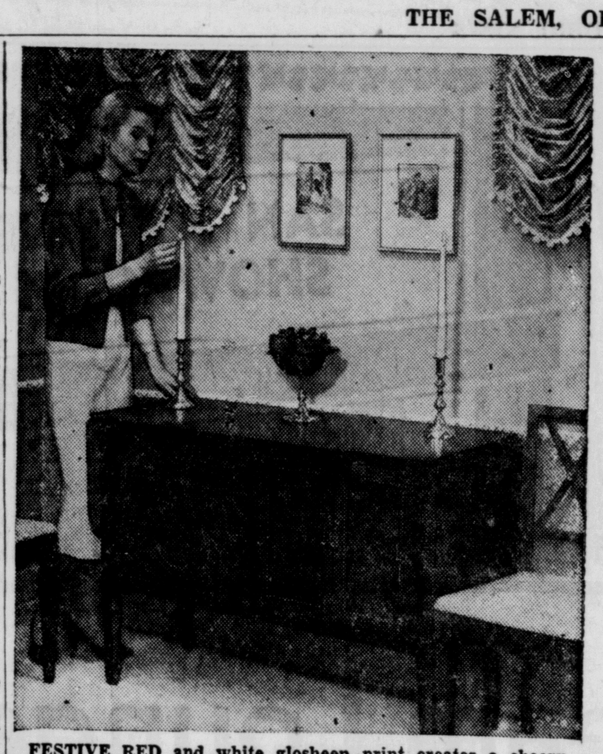
She notes toys are important educational tools.

Children learn to coordinate their muslces, to use their imagination, to develop their senses and to adapt to the world they live in with playthings.

"The thoughful Santa also consider where the child lives," Dr. Davis points out. "Toughly constructed, road building toys are wonderful for a child with a backyard but not nearly as useful to the child who lives in a fifth-floor city walkup.

And as a diplomatic gesture, provide gifts for each child in a family, even though you may have met only one.

FAMILY GIFTS mean more when they add pleasure to Mother's daily life. A straight-line refrigerator-freezer cuts her shopping trips and revolving shelves make finding food simple. Crepe paper and silver swirls are easy, but novel way to present this surprise.



FESTIVE RED and white glosheen print creates a cheery background for Christmas entertaining and covers difficult high windows. Made into Austrian shades, with fluffy white ball fringe and same pattern on wall dado.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Blood Vessel Disease and Smoking

A lady writes that her husband "lives on cigarettes and coffee." "His legs are always cold," she says, "and at times his ankles are blue or light purple. He is a nervous wreck. I think he has blood vessel disease from too much smoking.

Blood vessel disease sounds like a good guess. However, the writer's husband should have tests made to see if the blood vessels in his legs really are damaged.

As to the smoking part, tobacco is known to be harmful in most kinds of blood vessel disease, and it is probably safe to conclude that it should be stopped by this man.

-:-

THERE ARE A GOOD many people who have a modest amount of trouble with the circulation in their legs. Often it is difficult to put a name to it.

Sometimes the situation improves after stopping smoking, improvement in the general health, or change to a warmer climate. But there are also two important diseases which have to be considered and which, if found, require treatment.

One of these is Buerger's disease, which is an inflammtiaon of the lining of the arteries and veins generally in the feet and legs. Naturally this interferes with the circulation and may block a vessel entirely so that the pulsation of lost.

For some reason this is much more common in men thn women and almost invariably in escessively heavy smokers.

IN ADDITION to smoking, infections, and a poison known as ergot, are sometimes considered to play a part in the development of Buerger's disease.

This is a really serious condition. Smoking must be completely stopped and other measures carried out faithfully. If the blood circulation becomes completely shut off the victim may have to lose a toe or a foot.

Another related disease is called Raynaud's disease. In this disorder the blood is not cut off entirely but the vessels develop spasms. When such contractions of the blood vessels occur — often from cold water — the fingers, hands or feet turn white.

Whatever brings on such spasms of course, should be voided, and smoking has to be prohibited as in Buerger's disease.

THE TREATMENT of blood vessel disorders is quite complicated. In some cases of Buerger's disease, for example, drugs to delay coagulation of the blood are used.

Sometimes also, favorable effects are obtained with a machine applied to the leg which varies the pressure much as a milking machine would do. If the blood supply to an entire foot or toe has been cut off it may be necessary to perform an amputation.

Smallfrys Like to Cook

Mince Tarts Kid Stuff

Little girls who like to cook will get a thrill by helping mother with the Christmas baking. With a little imagination and a roll of quilted foil, they can make individual mince tarts in a wide varety of shapes.

SMALL cooks shape mince meat tarts into trees, wreaths, bells or stars. Form pattern with quilted broiling foil, shape dough inside. Fill with meat, trim with hard sauce.

One package prepared pie crust mix, 1 9-oz package condensed mince meat, 1½ cups crushed pineapple or 1½ cups raisins soaked in ¼ orange juice, 3 tablespoons sugar, broiling foil, prepared hard sauce.

Follow directions on package for making pie dough. From a roll of 14-inch quilted broiling foil, cut rectangular strips about 8 x 6 inches. Roll out enough dough for each tart until ¼-inch thick. Place on foil strips.

Cup foil and dough together into desired shape. Trim excess foil and dough. Make a standup edge of dough and foil about an inch wide to contain mince meat filling. Prick bottom of tart with fork to keep from blistering.

Bake in oven according to package directions. Cool the shell and remove foil. Break mince meat into small pieces in saucepan. Add water and place over heat. Stir until lumps are broken thoroughly. Boil briskly for one minute. Add sugar and crushed pineapple or raisins. Cool and pour into tart shells.

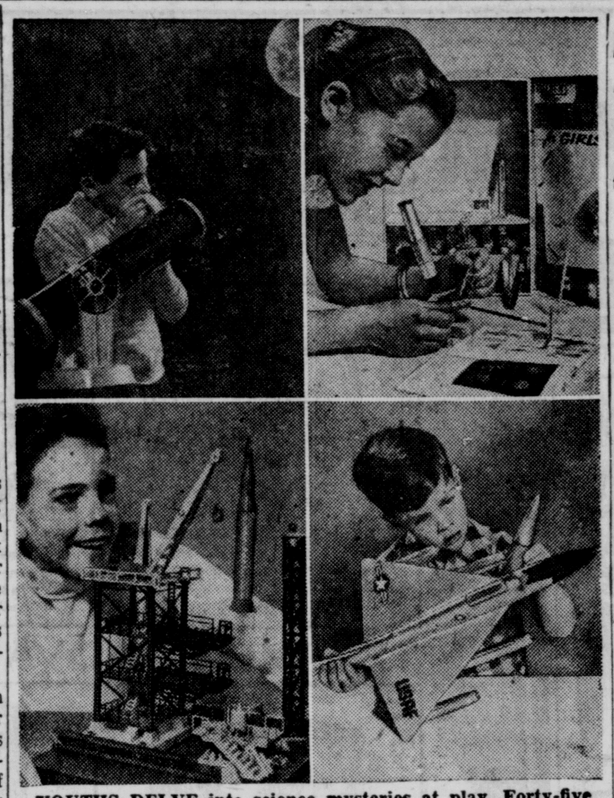
Sports Enthusiasts Need Equipment

The old bit about a sportsman being as good as his equipment has a grain of truth. You can start improving your favorite male's prowess this Christmas by buying him some new things.

Although the golf enthusiast usually prefers to select his own clubs, he is most receptive to such gifts as a good leather golf bag, a pair of the new lightweight leather golf shoes, golf carts and the numbered leather club head "mitts." And, of course, golf balls.

The ranks of male skiers are growing and if your man is among them, buy him something for the slopes. For instance, a colorful parka, a pair of sleek stretch pants, lined leather gloves that extend well above the wrists to keep the snow out, or a handy leather pouch that fastens on his belt to hold car keys, cigarettes, etc.

Boots, of course, rate high with the sportsman. Sturdy leather boots with flexible leather soles that protect feet from rough terrain and yet allow freedom of movement for comfort over long stretches of walking or standing are preferred.



YOUTHS DELVE into science mysteries at play. Forty-five power moonscope (top left) permits study of heavenly bodies while laboratory set for girls yields fascinating worldly tests. Train enthusiasts (lower left), meanwhile, count down for their own rocket launcher. Sharing living room skies will be aircraft, like the Air Force's newest supersonic jet.

Bell on Teenager's Knee Socks Tells World She's Going Steady

Lively teen-agers like festive touches that are attention-getting conversationmakers.

With comfortable cotton knee socks,, a pretty teen-ager can let her school friends know she is steady-dating by adding a special Christmas bell and bow to her knee-highs.

To make this she used a small Christmas bell and enough ribbon for a small bow. She first sewed the bell to the bow, dipped some cotton swabs in bright poster paints, sewed them in place then pinned the decoration to the sock.

Another teen-ager, not steady dating, can add a different kind of conversation-maker to her socks. Highlight them with time-on--hands decoration, for example.

To make this design use cut-outs of tiny felt hands in bright Christmas colors surmounted with a half-dollar size clock.

This time-on-hands decoration can be made with scraps of felt. Small beads sewed to the face of the clock cut-out can mark the hours. Make hands of black thread.

Kensington

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bryan Cox. There were 16 members and 2 visitors present. Mrs. Goldie Anthony had the contests, Mrs. Dick Russell and Mrs. Charles Wedell Jr. won the prizes. Mrs. Meda Maple had the devotionals. The next meeting will be the Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Meda Maple.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Beall and Mrs. Nora Roach were callers on Wednesday at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kibler and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers of Minerva.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strong of Cuyahoga Falls were Friday callers of Mrs. Lauda Dibble.

Jackie Wilson visited Friday evening and Saturday with his cousins, the Orsburn boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ezatt of Columbiana were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Boals and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loutzenheiser of Canton and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Loutzenheiser and family were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Loutzenheiser.

DAD ROLLS a perfect score in the gift department when the family comes up with complete AMF bowling outfit—ball, hand-tooled leather bag and sleek shoes. And for his outdoor mood there's good reading (inset) in fish and gun digests.

HOLIDAY BREATHER calls for a quick game with friend. Game set (left) features five games for grown-ups. Meanwhile, back in the nursery young lady wields a mean brush, with her first paint set. Big brush, tip-resistant mixing cups and reusable plastic paper spur her on.

New Version of Hobby Horse Keyed to Child's Imagination

Toys designed to stimulate creative and imaginative play will have a prominent place under 1958 Yule trees.

A new version of the classic stick horse is keyed to imaginative play. Instead of the horse's head, there is a steering wheel and instrument board with working gear shift and a horn that beeps. Back wheels click as the Pla-Stik goes into jet-propelled action indoors or out as children imagine they are rocketeers, firemen or bus drivers.

Junior artists, meanwhile, will find practical new aids. a "first" paint set provides large multicolored plastc mixing cups as a base for artistic endeavor. Watercolor disks are dropped into cups which match. The junior artist wets his brush in clear water and rubs it over a paint disk, thus avoiding mess.

Venus in Mid-'59, Mars in 1960, Maybe

What's Next for Space Age?

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—Here is what is coming up next in the space age — U.S. version.

At least this is the space timetable as it looks privately to scientists working on the big inter-world travel vehicle and other space -gadgets.

In mid-1959 — an attempt probably will be made to launch a satellite to circle the planet Venus.

By sometime in 1959 — the U.S. should finally put up a satellite as large as the ton-and-a-half Soviet Sputnik III.

In 1960 — the firing of a satellite attempt on Mars is in the cards.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists say the U.S. already has the basic know-how for the Venus and Mars attempts.

Once the moon probe guidance problems are licked, the technical men will be about ready to go on these planetary projects. The timetable is fixed largely by the dates the two planets will be in the right positions.

By 1961 — an attempt will be made to pioneer experimentally the use of earth satellites as navigational aids for ships, planes and submarines.

Scientists here say a satellite carrying a radio would be superior to the stars as a help to navigators. In extremely cold, rainy or stormy weather the stars, and even the sun, are of little use. But a ship caught in a tempest, or a submarine under the polar ice, could figure its positions day and night by means of navigational satellites.

By the end of 1963 — there will probably be an attempt to pioneer the use of satellites — equipped with television — in weather forecasting.

These weather TV's would look at cloud patterns all over the earth at once, see which way the clouds are moving, compare earth and cloud temperatures. They would thus make possible "much more accurate" long-range weather predictions.

Some Pentagon scientists believe these satellite observatories may eventually lead to the possibility of actual control of the world's weather.

By sometime in 1965 — there may be an attempt to use satellites as relays in intercontinental television broadcasting.

A TV relay satellite would probably be 22,000 miles above the earth, have a speed of 25,000 miles a day — exactly as fast as the earth whirls on its axis. Thus to people on earth the satellite would seem to be standing still. A TV station would send its pictures to the soaring satellite, which could relay them half the world away.

The same type of satellite — with modifications — could be used to relay 10,000 telephone conversations simultaneously across the Atlantic or Pacific.

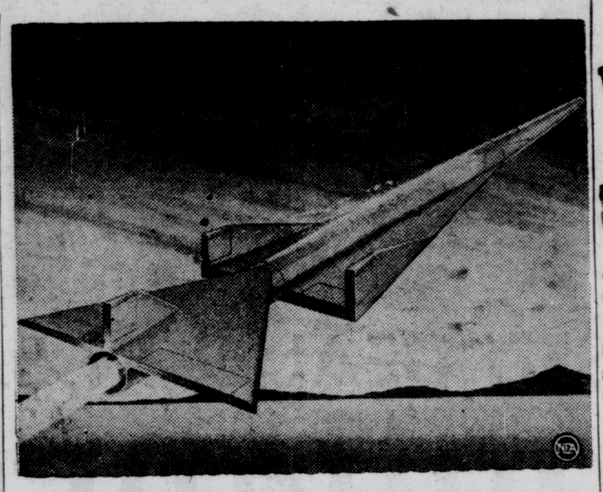
By 1966 — the U.S. should be ready to try launching a 20-ton earth satellite.

This space station would be large enough to hold a well-equipped laboratory and a scientist or two.

By 1968 — Americans should be able to manage a landing on the moon — and a return trip.

Sometimes beyond these dates, scientists hope to come up with a practical nuclear-powered spaceship.

This timetable, of course, doesn't guarantee these ventures will be successful according to schedule. These are the dates when scientists think we will have the ability to try these ventures "with a reasonable degree of hope for success."



NUCLEAR-POWERED ROCKET GLIDER is envisioned in this sketch by Convair's Krafft A. Ehricke as "commuter ship" for personnel bound for manned earth satellite. First such satellite should be ready for launching by 1966.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

Within a few days in the headquarters of at least one of President Eisenhower's advisers, several men will talk about a peace parley to head off one whale of an industrial war looming grimly in 1959.

This war will be a "class" war, it seems to some of us who won purple hearts covering the tear gas and brick-and bat conflicts of ancient strikes. Insiders see trouble coming as both sides line up and labor people shout "fascist" at businessmen nd industrialists return the taunts with charges that union leaders are "socialists."

For some time all this has troubled one of the men who will be dropping in on Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss.

The visitor will be counselor Arthur J. Goldberg, as practical a man as any who has had his peace of mind troubled with a touch of evangelism.

Mr. Goldberg, special counsel to the AFL-CIO, believes that the only way to offset the coming struggle for power is a labor-management summit meeting.

Attorney Goldberg talked of this recently in a university speech. Then he said:

-:-

"IN THE RECENT past, I see a hardening of attitudes and retrogression, rather than progress and understanding.

"Management is tougher, unions are tougher, and the end product is not necessarily good for either side."

Goldberg, who also advises the United Steel Workers of America, added: "Each (side) feels it must take a firm stand in behalf of its principles."

No man so high in labor's councils has ever spoken so bluntly—and many believe, so objectively. His warning should not go unheeded throughout the land.

"If this hardening of attitudes which I see is not due to economics, then what is its cause?" he asks.

"Frankly, I'm not sure that I know but I know that it exists. Perhaps it is a by-product of our political scene. For however successful collective bargaining may appear on the surface in organized industries politically, legislatively, philosophically, labor and management today stand apart and the degree of polarization of viewpoints in these areas is far greater than in collective bargaining."

-:-

OUT OF HIS experience in dealing with truly vast powerful national forces on both sides, Goldberg comes up with the observation that there is a new generation of executives on both sides. They are strangers to each other.

The men who sat long hours around — instead of across — conference tables during the war, mutually planning to save our land and crush Nazi and Japanese armies, are mostly gone.

The new executives, the new labor chiefs have been growing apart for over a decade now. They know each other only as men in recent wage battles.

What Goldbert suggests is that they be brought together regularly by the government and isolated so they can talk to no one but each other for two or three weeks at a stretch.

And if this doesn't happen?

"If we take no step, if we make no effort, the alternative is discouraging — the widening of the chasm, a hardening of attitudes, all leading to an eventual militant class consciousness — the absence of which has been one of the strength of democratic America."

-:-

GOLDBERG'S PLAN, ditributed to over 100 prominent labor and business leaders and educators, calls for the secretary of labor and the secretary of commerce to co-chair such sessions.

To the long summit parleys, Goldberg would have the two Cabinet members invite labor's high command and the presidents and boards of directors of major corportions.

All this, the labor lawyer will raise shortly when he drops i meet the new secretary of merce.

Secretary Strauss tells me he is interested in Goldberg's posals but that he and Labor retary Mitchell would have to sider them jointly.

Mr. Strauss, officially the taker of the land's commercia terests, is eager to work for la management peace but does want to insinuate himself slightly into Jim Mitchell's wick.

However it's done, the vital t is that the prophetic voice of Goldberg be heeded.

Two Candles Spell 'Cheer' For Holidays

For lawn or porch decoration, how about two welcome candles that spell "Merry Christmas" on one side and when reversed will greet the visitor with "Happy New Year?"

Make the base of two pieces of 1x12-inch lumber, 11½ inches long. These are glued, with waterproof glue, to produce a double thickness with grain crossed. In the center of each base a smaller inside brace is made of two piecs of 1x6-inch lumber, each 5½ inches long, glued with the grain crossed and nailed or screwed to the base.

The front and back faces are of 1x8-inch lumber, the shorter ones 4 feet long and the longer ones 6 feet long. Draw four-inch square letters for the two legends in pencil and saw out the letters.

The two unlettered sides of the candles are of 1x6 - inch lumber, one serving as a door, and the other as a panel for the attachment of the electrical fixturers. Three 1-inch holes are bored near the top of each of these pieces to permit heat to escape.

Fasten colored fireproof film to the inside of the lettered panels, and fasten the electrical fixtures for fluroescent lighting on the stationary side panel, with the electrical cable entering a hole bored in the bottom of the panel Then fasten the lettered panels and the electrical panel to the base and to each other with 6-penny finishing nails and glue. Add the cap, in the center of which a hole ½ inch in diameter is bored ⅜-inch deep.

The "flame" is made of ½-inch dowel and a small piece of lumber. Glue the dowel into the cap and into the flame.

JUNIOR marksmen will get a bang out of air-operated gun. Produees ack-ack sound when firing plastic balls at target.

ELFIN CHARACTERS had a sniffing good time with fragrance for Christmas. They found a freshen-up kit by Jean Nate (top left) with soothing talc, balm and soap; Renoir Dona Sol perfume and eau de toilette set and elegant Christian Dior urn. They also turned up (bottom left) Poudre Glacee, a cooling, spray-on bath powder; improved packable aerosol containers for fragrances and more elegant and practical purse flacons like this by Angelique.

'Rockets Away' Is Yuletide Cry As Youngsters Take to Space

Youngsters who don't blast off and orbit round the Christmas tree this year are probably counting down for their playmates.

Outer space has whirled into their world of fantasy and parents can expect an onslaught of satellite jargon at the breakfast table after Santa comes.

Christmas boxes will yield such things as a satellite train with a styrofoam satellite that floats in the air; an Alpha 1 ballistic missile that travels 150 to 200 feet when launched with bottled water and bicarb, and a satelite launcher that fires two flying saucers, and also has a rocket gun to shoot them down.

But that is only the beginning. There is a variety of toys to make home base as complete as Cape Canaveral.

Included are space helmets with antenna and a cosmic ray protector shield. Spacewomen will have a complete space cadet costume while boys generally must settle with a helmet. However, there is a cardboard robot outfit for the boys with plastic claws for handling "hot" metals while in an atom lab.

Hobbyists will have a field day with model kits of atomic cannon, launching platforms and missiles. Kusan-Asburn, for example, has kits for the Honest John, Talos, Corporal, Nike and on down the giant missile line.

When youngsters aren't launching rockets, they may be bouncing about on rocket shoes. Or more sedate earth creatures can get in the satellite spirit wih a flying saucer game. Dad might like this one—it is a space-age version of pitching horseshoes.

Keep ash trays emptied and glasses rinsed as you go along, advises Servicemaster. Also have a supply of paper towels available. Then if a drink is spilled or rain, snow or mud tracked in from outside, there is something to blot it up right away.

Another precautionary measure is to have a good carpet cleaning brush and solution in the cleaning closet. Then after the party give the carpet an overall freshening up.

SANTA PLACE settings spring from two simple bows, marshmallows and tufts of cotton. Ribbon that sticks to itself when moistened and tears into thin strips makes possible package decorations such as bell, candle or delicate tree.

Where Will Those Extra Dollars Go In '59

It's Your Pocketbook

By FAYE HENLE
(NEA Staff Writer)

We are fast approaching the time of year when you'll be reading forecasts of the 1959 business climate.

Predictions make fascinating reading. This will be especially true this year for the following reasons:

We are at the threshold of what has been promised as the fabulous '60's.

We have buried the sharpest, but shortest, of post-World War II recessions.

We have just emerged from bitter political contests which have prompted our all-too-human government to extol the current business picture.

-:-

WHAT ABOUT 1959? Many of the forecasts you'll hear will be filled with contradictions. Apply cold logic to what you hear and read.

This is what I mean. A few days ago, along with a select group of Wall Street analysts, I listened to an eminent economist forecast the outlook for new capital spending. Said he:

"New housing starts should rise to 18.9 billion dollars against the estimated 17.5 billion of this year . . . The rate of family formations will be lower."

Unmentioned was the fact that mortgage money is becoming tighter with little evidence that it will be more plentiful next year. Less money with which to build, less need for building homes, and still a forecast of a rise in home building. Does this make sense?

Listen to this one "Capital expenditures by business for plant and equipment is expected to rise 5 per cent above the 1958 level to 33 billion.

"Only a small increase in such spending will be made by manufacturing industries." In the next breath: "About a third of all manufacturing firms are planning capital expenditures for new products."

Finally his punch-line "Inflation is a product of scarcity. It is difficult to flout inflation in a period of mounting abundance. We have excess manufacturing capacity, excess labor. There is neither a shortage of raw materials nor of manufactured goods." And then: "Labor monopolies force wage increases."

WAGE INCREASES spell higher prices and if higher prices don't lead to inflation, then please pray tell, what does?

Will the sales of durable goods, automobiles and appliances, gain sharply next year at the expense of soft goods and such? Which will get the biggest share of the increased consumer spending that is bound to come from rising incomes?

This debate is perennial. It will sound again in year-end forecasts. Yet it is silly. People tend pretty much to maintain their living standards whether or not they spend for durables.

Just because the family gets a new car doesn't mean that Pop won't get a gift sport shirt or Sis a formal. What we will be spending more for is services. Services are costing more. It is in this direction, I'll wager, that our extra 1959 dollars will be spent.

Farm Bureau Plans Membership Drive

The membership drive of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will begin with a kick-off meeting Monday at Guilford Grange Hall.

Mrs. Arland Weaver of West Township and Floyd Glazer of Lisbon are drive leaders.

The campaign will conclude on Dec. 6. A goal of 490 members has been set.

Twenty-seven members representing 11 councils attended the Columbiana County Farm Bureau Advisory Council's leadership training meeting Monday evening in the farm bureau office at Lisbon.

Ben Glover, assistant director of youth and adult education, and Jean Wertz, assistant director of women's activities, both of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, were the leaders.

Police Officer Who 'Bungled' 1932 Lindbergh Case Dies

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Maj. Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkpf (ret), who headed the New Jersey State Police at the time of the Lindbergh kidnaping case, died Tuesday night at his home He was 63.

The onetime military adviser to the Persian government has been in retirement for several years. The cause of death was not disclosed.

Despite his accomplishments as a soldier, businessman and organizer, it was as a policeman that he won national attention.

Schwarzkopf in 1932 led the state police hunt for the kidnaper of the Charles A. Lindbergh son. Schwarzkopf drew criticism from Gov. Harold G. Hoffman that he had "bungled" the case.

Hoffman refused to reappoint the tall, crisp military man to a fourth term as state police superintendent in 1936.

Hoffman's attitude was based on Hoffman's conviction that more than one person was involved in the kidnaping for which Bruno Richard Hauptan was convicted and executed.

In 1954, Schwarzkopf headed an investigation into the Division of Public Security. Hoffman was its chief.

Hoffman was suspended. When he died a few months later, it was disclosed he had mishandled the division's funds to cover up a bank embezzlement early in his political life.

Middle West Shivers From Cold Weather

By The Associated Press

The nation's midsection shivered in the coldest weather of the season today.

Bone-chilling winds up to 60 m.p.h. whistled across the Northern Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley. Snow blanketed wide areas in the Rockies and northern Midwest areas but falls diminished as the storm moved east and southward during the night.

Temperatures dropped below zero in sections of Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota. They tumbled into the 20s and lower from the mid Mississippi Valley through the Central Plains.

The cold air was expected to envelope most sections from the Rockies into the Appalachians and move into the Atlantic Coast by tonight.

Generally cold and fair weather was the outlook for most of the nation Thursday.

The gusty winds in North Dakota drifted a snow blanket which ranged from 2 to 14 inches deep across the state and into extreme northern Minnesota.

Ahead and near the leading edge of the cold air mass, scattered showers and rain fell along a wide belt from the lower Great Lakes region into northeast Arkansas and northern sections of the Gulf States.

Snow flurries flecked areas in the Great Lakes region and Upper Mississippi Valley. Rain mixed with snow was forecast in interior sections of Pennylvania, New work and New England while rain was expected along the Gulf Coast and through the Atlantic coastal states.

COMEBACK FOR THE OO-MING-MACK — The oo-ming-mack is no longer in danger of extermination. Better known as the musk ox (oo-ming-mack is the Eskimo word), the animal is on the increase in experimental herds in Alaska and Canada. A few years back, the much-hunted animal was believed to have found its last home in Greenland. Efforts to establish herds in northern Europe and Iceland have failed. One drawback remains. Neither the wool nor the meat have any commercial value.

Sulphuric Acid Mist Is Blamed For California Pollution Siege

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A smog of words filled the air today after the current air-pollution siege was blamed in part on sulphuric acid mist.

The county smog control chief said Tuesday the attack consists in part of an acid mist of the type blamed for smog deaths in Donora, Pa., and London, England.

He said it has him worried although he doesn't think the siege poses an immediate threat to health.

Smith Griswold, head of the county Air Pollution Control District, told the county board of supervisors his chief concern is that no means yet exists for measuring the air's acid content.

The eye-tinging smog attack is in its fourth day and apparently tapering off. Weather forecasters said a sea breeze might carry it away late this afternoon "if we're lucky."

Meanwhile, a visiting congressman called for a nationwide drive on smog. A citizens' committee official demanded refinery closings. A county supervisor lambasted automobile makers, and a state legislator proposed an antismog automobile law.

Rep. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind) was here to get California congressmen's help in a nationwide drive for federal action. Honor guest at a city hall luncheon, he told the mayor and other officials:

"There will never be a solution of the smog problem at the local level. It must come from the federal level. . . . Smog is now a nationwide problem

"Los Angeles smog is widely publicized, but the smog in Chicago is often just as bad but you never hear about it In Buffalo, I've seen it so bad you had to light a match to see. It is a problem in Detroit, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Seattle, San Francisco — and just about every other major city."
